... Coup In Sudan Replaces One Leftist With Another

Beirut, Lebanon (AP) — A disgruntled army major announced Monday night he had overthrown the Sudanese regime of Maj. Gen. Joafar el Numairi in a palace coup that pitted one leftist against another.

The coup leader, Maj. Hashem el Atta, is an ally of Sudan's outlawed Communist party. Numairi had banned all parties, including the Communists, but he also had strengthened the country's ties with the Soviet Union and other Communist bloc nations during his two years in power.

Economy, Civil War
State Department officials in Washington noted that Numairi had solved neither Sudan's economic problems nor its 18-year-old bloody civil war between the light-skinned Moslems of the north and the blacks of the south, who are part Christian and part pagan.

Atta, 36, a former deputy premier, surrounded the presidential palace beside the Nile in Khartoum with tanks. He used the radio station in Omdurman, five miles away, to announce his takeover.

Radio Baghdad said Numairi fled to Cairo. There were no reports of fighting. The Iraqi news agency reported troops moved into Khartoum behind a column of tanks and seized government building and the radio station without meeting any resistance.

'Reactionary Imperialism' Hit

In a policy statement over Omdurman radio, Atta said he would "lead a true revolution . . . to block reactionary imperialist schemes forever." He vowed to link Sudan even closer with Communist and Socialist countries and indicated he would bring Communists into the government through a coalition of "all truly progressive and nationalist forces."

Numairi, 41, in his ban of Communists from government service, claimed they were plotting against him.

The Socialist Baath government of Iraq immediately pledged its "complete support" to Atta. Atta's statement made no mention of closer cooperation with Egypt, and observers felt he might be moving closer to Iraq, a traditional rival of Cairo for leadership in the Arab world.

Southern Autonomy Pledged
Omdurman radio reported that when order was restored the southern part of Sudan would be granted autonomy — a demand that has fired the civil war in Sudan for nearly two decades.

Numairi, who seized power in May 1969, was popular in the first few months of his rule, but then he banned all political parties and made a sharp turn to the left that alienated the conservative elements.

He nationalized banks, newspapers and a number of other firms, made arms buying expeditions to Moscow and visited Communist China last year.

Congress Urged To Be Cautious

... Nixon Briefs Leaders

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon urged members of Congress through their leaders Monday to refrain from unnecessary speculation or legislative action that might disrupt delicate preparations for his trip to Communist China this winter.

Democrats and Republicans who attended a 90-minute briefing in the White House Cabinet Room agreed there was no suggestion that Nixon's travel plans signalled an end to the U.S. combat role in Vietnam by May 1, the latest possible date given for the trip.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott cited this possibility in a television interview Sunday before the President returned to Washington from San Clemente, Calif., but did not pursue the idea after the White House meeting.

No Vietnam Speculation
Press secretary Ronald Ziegler said the purpose of Nixon's trip was to "discuss matters of mutual interest" between China and the United States. He added specifically that Nixon refused to speculate "in any way whatsoever" about Vietnam.

Later, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who did not attend the White House briefing, told his colleagues on the floor that it was "inherent in the President's announcement that all U.S. troops will be out of combat in Vietnam before the President goes to Peking and that Peking has reached the same conclusion."

Javits said Premier Chou En-lai's reported willingness for China to take part in a new Geneva-style conference on Indochina "adds weight to my belief that May 1972 may well be recorded as the Vietnam withdrawal date."

The briefing was given by Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers and Henry A. Kissinger, the President's national security affairs adviser who arranged the trip during a secret, 49-hour visit to Peking July 9-11 during his round-the-world tour.

Nixon discussed his travel plans with the Cabinet for an hour. Rogers returned to the State Department for separate conferences with the ambassadors of Nationalist China, Japan, Australia, New Zealand, Thailand, France, West Germany and Italy.

Rogers Does The Talking
Rogers met first with James C. H. Shen of Nationalist China, which has strongly protested the Nixon trip. Shen told newsmen afterwards that "I did all the listening . . . He did all the talking."

Rogers will make an announcement soon — Scott said in about two weeks — of Nixon's decision on a new U.S. position on Peking's proposed admission to the United Nations.

After his 30-minute meeting with Rogers, Japanese Ambassador Nobuhiko Ushiba said it was "quite clear" that both their countries would "try to keep the membership of Nationalist China in the United Nations."

MIDWEST CONFERENCE . . .

Governors' Top Worry Farming

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

South Sioux City — Midwestern governors placed agriculture at the top of their agenda Monday as they launched a three-day conference in the heart of the corn belt along the banks of the Missouri River.

Gov. J. James Exon, who is hosting the 15-state Midwestern Governors Conference along with Iowa Gov. Robert Ray, further detailed his proposal to create a national policy-making food and fiber board to replace the United States Agriculture Department.

Recent national agricultural policy under both Republican and Democratic administrations was condemned by a number of chief executives.

'Reduced To Whisper'
Part of the problem, Ray suggested, is the fact that "the rural voice in Congress is being reduced to a whisper."

But Gov. Arch Moore of West Virginia, a congressman for a dozen years, told his colleagues from more agricultural states (his major crop is apples) that Congress is willing to help if farm representatives can only agree on the means to solve agriculture's economic woes.

"A lot of urban congressmen want to give you their vote," he said. "But they want someone to tell them what the answer is to the agricultural problems of America."

Moore's remarks were prompted by an inquiry from Exon as to how urban citizens view farm problems.

Gov. Wendell Anderson of Minnesota told Exon he has noticed that some farm area congressmen are less sympathetic to needed agricultural programs than their urban counterparts.

Gov. Warren Hearnes of Missouri noted that the sword cuts both ways. Rural residents, he said, are "not always as sympathetic to city problems as they could be."

Gov. William Guy of North Dakota, saw some hope ahead. There will one day soon be a national demand for land reform, Guy said, "and we will wander back to a national policy of encouraging small farms."

Gov. Richard Kneip of South Dakota said both Democratic and Republican administrations have tried to "sweep agriculture under the national rug and pursue what has become a tendency toward a cheap food policy for the supposed benefit of urban residents."

No More 'Tip-Toeing'
"We can no longer permit the administration and the Congress to quietly tip-toe away from the plight of the farmer," he said.

Kneip endorsed Exon's food and fiber plan.

Exon said his proposal would allow development of detailed production management programs, stabilize agricultural prices, increase farm earnings and expand markets for agricultural products.

What the governor called "an active information program" for farm producers would better inform them of production developments and help reduce price fluctuations, he said.

"We should determine — once and for all — if agricultural producers will adjust production when they know the dollar and cents implications of their actions," Exon said.

'Price Stability Keystone'
"Price stability is a keystone for the new house for agricultural policy."

The alternative, he said, is the present cycle of fluctuating prices and production.

As for farm subsidy programs, Kneip suggested, they benefit the consumer even more than the farmer.

Without them, Exon said, corporate farming would absorb the remaining family sized farms and food prices would experience "a fantastic rise."

NE Treatment Plant Assurances Given

By TOM EKVAL
Star Staff Writer

Public Utilities Director Lee Blocker Monday assured the City Council at a budget review session he has budgeted sufficient funds to keep the northeast treatment plant project moving ahead.

Council Chairman Dick Hartsock questioned Blocker whether sufficient funds were budgeted so that there would be no delays due to lack of funds.

Both Hartsock and Bob Sikyta emphasized that they plan to stay on top of the project so that it does move ahead as rapidly as possible.

Hartsock's comments about the northeast plant drew a question from Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf as to why the big hurry over the new plant.

Hartsock replied that the plant has been discussed ever since he has been on the council.

Blocker assured the council that the $425,000 budgeted for the 1971-72 fiscal year should adequately take care of land acquisition and engineering studies.

He said plans call for the new plant as programmed to be in operation by Sept. 1, 1975 if everything happens without any problems.

Hartsock said he feels the new plant is necessary to promote normal, orderly growth, more specifically in regard to development in the Stevens Creek area.

He said people have expressed to him an interest in growth in the Stevens Creek area.

Steve Cook, though, cautioned against "expanding in every direction irresponsibly" resulting in a cost which the city could not afford.

The council members went over the sewage, water, and electric utility budgets without making any additions or deletions.

Lincoln Electric Systems District Manager James Ekstrand said his proposed budget does not contemplate any rate increases to LES customers during the upcoming fiscal year.

Ekstrand added, though, that Nebraska Public Power District (NPPD) is considering an increase in its wholesale rates which is not included in the budget.

Purchased power is budgeted for $9,730,000 as compared to $7,866,500. The increase, he said, is due to customer usage.

Ekstrand said that should wholesale rates be increased, the board would have to look at reductions in capital improvements. He said another choice could also be the possibility of a rate hike to customers.

"I have no idea how much wholesale rates would be. We will have to wait to see what happens," Ekstrand said.

Blocker noted that for the first time in several years his sanitary sewer budget shows a proposed decrease. He has budgeted $1,421,933, a decrease of $76,549 from the present fiscal year.

The water department budget is $3,032,801, an increase of $212,396 over the 1970-71 budget.

deal mostly with married couples or those about to be married."

'Career People'

Mikkelsen said single men and women over the age of 28 are usually considered "career people" and don't have trouble getting home loans.

Just as marriage can be used as a stability indicator, so can divorce be used as an instability indicator, Mikkelsen said.

"I certainly wouldn't say that one divorce is a negative factor, but two or more divorces usually doesn't help an applicant who's trying to get credit."

Definite Consideration

First National Bank definitely takes into consideration an applicant's marital status when deciding whether to grant a loan, according to George Barlow of First National.

"Of course it makes a difference whether an applicant is married just as it matters how long he's lived at his address . . . These are sometimes the best way to judge whether the applicant will be around long enough to repay the loan."

Large credit-issuing firms such as BankAmericard are the most notable exceptions to the marriage rule.

Doesn't Matter

According to Duane Shainost, manager of the Lincoln BankAmericard center, whether or not an applicant is married doesn't enter into the decision at all.

"There's no hard fast rule, but generally, level of income is the main factor we consider," Shainost said. An income of $400 a month is usually enough to qualify an applicant for BankAmericard credit, he said.

Shainost said many students apply for BankAmericards, but can't qualify because of insufficient income. "We have been able to accommodate many of them, however, by having their account guaranteed by their parents."

Credit Not Always Easy For Newly Employed, Young

By LINDA SULLIVAN
Star Staff Writer

Ever since Henry Ford was faced with the problem of finding a way customers could afford to buy his product, Americans have been buying on credit. But obtaining credit, especially if you're young and new in the job world, is not always easy.

If you're a single man who often gets tired of working the same job and living at the same address, you may be in trouble. Many Lincoln creditors will consider you the poorest of risks, no matter how much money you have.

A check with several Lincoln department stores and lending firms shows that stability is more important to many creditors than level of income of the applicant. And creditors usually consider marital status, and length of time at the same job and address the most important stability indicators.

Indicates 'Roots'
Why is marriage so important? According to Ken Opp of the Lincoln Credit Bureau, marriage indicates an applicant has "roots."

"A married person is less likely to take off for San Francisco or Alaska," Opp noted, adding that men seem to get the traveling bug more often than women, and so are considered poorer credit risks.

The Credit Bureau of Lincoln verifies all credit applications made to Lincoln banks, stores and lending institutions. The bureau also keeps records of payment habits of Lincolniters and issues reports giving such information to Lincoln firms.

4-Part Report

According to Opp, the report consists of four parts: identification, which includes name, address, age, occupation and marital status; public record information on the applicant, including information on any divorces, litigations or civil suits in which the applicant has been involved; history of the applicant, including information on addresses and employment for the past two years; and finally, payment habits.

Dependence on the Credit Bureau's report is one thing all Lincoln creditors have in common. Other factors, including adherence to the marriage-indicates-a-good risk guideline, vary from firm to firm.

National retail chains such as Montgomery Ward, Penney's and Sears are often favorably disposed toward opening charge accounts for young people, particularly singles. "We operate on the premise that a cash customer is anybody's, but a credit customer is ours," one store credit manager said.

Establish Habits Early

"We also know that people establish spending habits early and that singles often have more spendable income. Because of that, we like to get the young credit customers."

Brandeis of Lincoln also likes to get the young customer, but has strict guidelines determining which young people are eligible.

A high school graduate who has been working for three months is usually eligible for an account with maximum credit of $100. Credit is also extended to college juniors and seniors, according to Mrs. Leslie Jelinek, Brandeis-Lincoln credit manager.

Mrs. Jelinek said college "buzz books" are used to check class standing of young applicants.

Easier Time

Married applicants often do have an easier time of getting credit at Brandeis than singles, if all other factors are equal, Mrs. Jelinek said.

First Federal Savings and Loan Association, which deals primarily in home financing, lends almost exclusively to marrieds, according to Harry Mikkelsen, vice president.

"Actually, few singles apply for home loans, because few care about owning homes. We

New York Times News Summary

(c) New York Times News Service

Washington — In an attempt to dispel the impression in Congress that his plan to visit Peking would hasten the settlement of the Vietnam conflict, President Nixon, according to his press secretary, refused Monday to speculate on any possible effects of his visit on the conflict when he briefed congressional leaders on his plans. (More on Page 1.)

N-Arms Shift To Taiwan Nixed

Washington — A Pentagon plan to shift nuclear weapons from Okinawa to Taiwan has been turned down by President Nixon as part of what government officials said was administration movement toward better relations with mainland China. Nixon vetoed the proposal in the wake of his decision to visit Peking.

Nixon Refuses To Speculate On Visit's Effect

Guerrillas Rounded Up

Umm al Hiran — Jordan's Premier Wasfi Tal announced that the army had "rounded up" more than 2,000 Palestinian guerrillas and that only 200 remained at liberty. (More on Page 16.)

Sudan's Regime Ousted

Beirut — A group of Sudanese army officers, led by a former deputy premier who had been ousted from the government because of Communist sympathies, was reported to have seized power in Khartoum. (More on Page 1.)

Telephone Agreement Reached

Washington — A week-long telephone strike was to end at midnight Monday following agreement between the Communication Workers of America and the Bell Telephone System on a new contract. (More on Pages 2, 3.)

Thieu Says Vote To Be Fair

Saigon — South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu insisted that next fall's presidential elections would be honest and fair and said he would welcome foreign observers. In an attack on his most serious rival, Thieu accused Gen. Duong Van Minh of slanderous and irresponsible statements.

Tories Cut British Taxes

London — In an attempt to bolster Britain's slumping economy and reduce inflation, the Conservative government cut taxes by $564 million and eliminated all consumer credit controls. (More on Page 10.)

Nixon Dissociated

Washington — Presidential press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler, in effect, dissociated President Nixon from Vice President Agnew's statement that "querulous" American black leaders do not compare favorably to African leaders. Ziegler said Nixon was accustomed to meeting with foreign and domestic black leaders and had respect for both.

VA Drug Program Expanded

Washington — The House expanded the Veteran's Administration drug treatment program to include both active duty servicemen and veterans who had received dishonorable discharges. The expanded program, which is expected to receive Senate approval within a few weeks, is expected to cost about $39.3 million over five years.

Conversion Of FDA Proposed

Washington — President Nixon has proposed converting the Food and Drug Administration into a new agency that would regulate a wide range of consumer products, as well as food and drugs. The change is contingent upon the passage of an administration bill that would increase federal responsibility for consumer product safety. (More on Page 2.)

Gunman Linked To Gambino

New York — Chief of Detectives Albert Seedman said Jerome A. Johnson, who police say shot Joseph A. Colombo June 28, and was himself fatally shot moments after the shooting, was known to be associated with people who were connected to the alleged underworld crime group led by Carlo Gambino. The police had previously said only that Johnson has been hired to kill Colombo.

What Killed Cosmonauts Said Unlikely To Affect Astronauts

By HOWARD BENEDICT

Cape Kennedy, Fla. (AP) — American spacecraft experts believe safeguards built into the Apollo command module will prevent in U.S. manned flights the sort of disaster that killed three Soviet cosmonauts aboard Soyuz 11.

The official Soviet explanation for what went wrong on Soyuz 11 was that a pressure leak developed in the spaceship about 30 minutes before re-entry into the earth's atmosphere June 30. The account ruled out structural damage to the craft, implying human error.

The American experts say they don't believe a similar depressurization accident could happen to the crew of Apollo 15, which blasts off for the moon July 26.

Apollo has a double hatch, a better latching system, a leak detection procedure and a safer pressurization system, they say. Even if the spacecraft lost pressure, the astronauts would have time to don spacesuits.

No Cosmonaut Suits

The cosmonauts don't even carry pressure suits. Their pressure system is such that if a puncture occurs, death is almost instantaneous with no chance to don suits.

Here's how U.S. engineers familiar with the Soyuz design calculate what happened:

Soyuz consists of three parts — the orbital module where the cosmonauts spend most of their time, the re-entry module, which they enter just before returning to earth, and the service module, which contains batteries, oxygen, nitrogen and other life support equipment.

To re-enter from orbit, an engine aboard the service module fires for five minutes to slow the speed. The service module separates and small engines push it a safe distance away.

Two minutes later, the re-entry module separates from the orbital module. This is done by firing explosive charges and safe distance is achieved when the air pressure inside the orbital module — which no longer has a hatch — pushes it away.

Seal Failure

It was at this separation point that the Soviets announced they had received no further word from the three cosmonauts. They said there was a seal failure, which could only be in the hatch.

"They had a pressure leak in the hatch and they had no way of knowing it," one authority said.

Why didn't they know it?

Both modules were pressurized to 14.7 pounds per square inch (psi) with about 80% nitrogen and 20% oxygen gas, simulating sea level conditions on earth. With the pressure the same on both sides of the common hatch, and maintained by a pressure equalization valve in the hatch, there was no way to detect the leak.

Successful 10 Times

"That same system had operated successfully on 10 earlier Soyuz flights," the U.S. authority said. "So the logical conclusion is that it was not the design by itself that was at fault, that it was probably human error. Maybe because of their long exposure to space they were not able to function properly and they either didn't latch the hatch correctly or they forgot to close the valve before separation."

How does the Apollo ship differ?

Before re-entering the atmosphere, Apollo consists of two sections, the command module and the service module. The service module is jettisoned before the craft hits the atmosphere and is taken safely away by small thrusters. Without an orbital module, the astronauts have no concern about an undetectable leak between two sections.

Two Hatches

The Apollo command module has two hatches — a main one for entering and leaving the spacecraft and a tunnel hatch for transfer into the lunar module, which is jettisoned in moon orbit. Even the slightest leak would be detectable by the astronauts or sensors, a luxury the Soyuz does not have because of its pressure equalization system.

The main Apollo hatch is secured by 15 latches and the tunnel hatch by six, compared with only one for the Soyuz hatch. But most important, Apollo is pressurized to only 5 psi with pure oxygen.

"With a nitrogen-oxygen mixture like the Soyuz has, if you have more than 3 psi, that nitrogen is going to boil in the blood if you lose pressure," the authority said. "When you drop from 14.7 psi to zero in a hurry, the blood is boiling. Death is almost instant."

Time To Grab Masks

"With oxygen at 5 psi, the depressurization is not as rapid. The astronauts can take depressurization better. There is time to grab oxygen masks," he said.

"In addition, Apollo has a surge tank system that will maintain cabin pressure for 10 to 15 minutes even if we suddenly developed a hole one-half an inch in diameter anywhere in the spacecraft," he added. "That's enough time for the crew to put on their protective pressure suits. A meteorite puncture — a remote chance — probably wouldn't punch that big a hole."

The surge tank holds 3.7 pounds of oxygen for use during re-entry. In an emergency it can supply oxygen at a high-flow rate to maintain cabin pressure.

What safeguards are there when the Apollo command ship is linked to the lunar module?

There is a tunnel connecting the two craft and each end has a hatch. In normal flight with all three astronauts in the command ship, there is no pressure in the tunnel and a leak would be detectable by the astronauts because of the pressure difference.

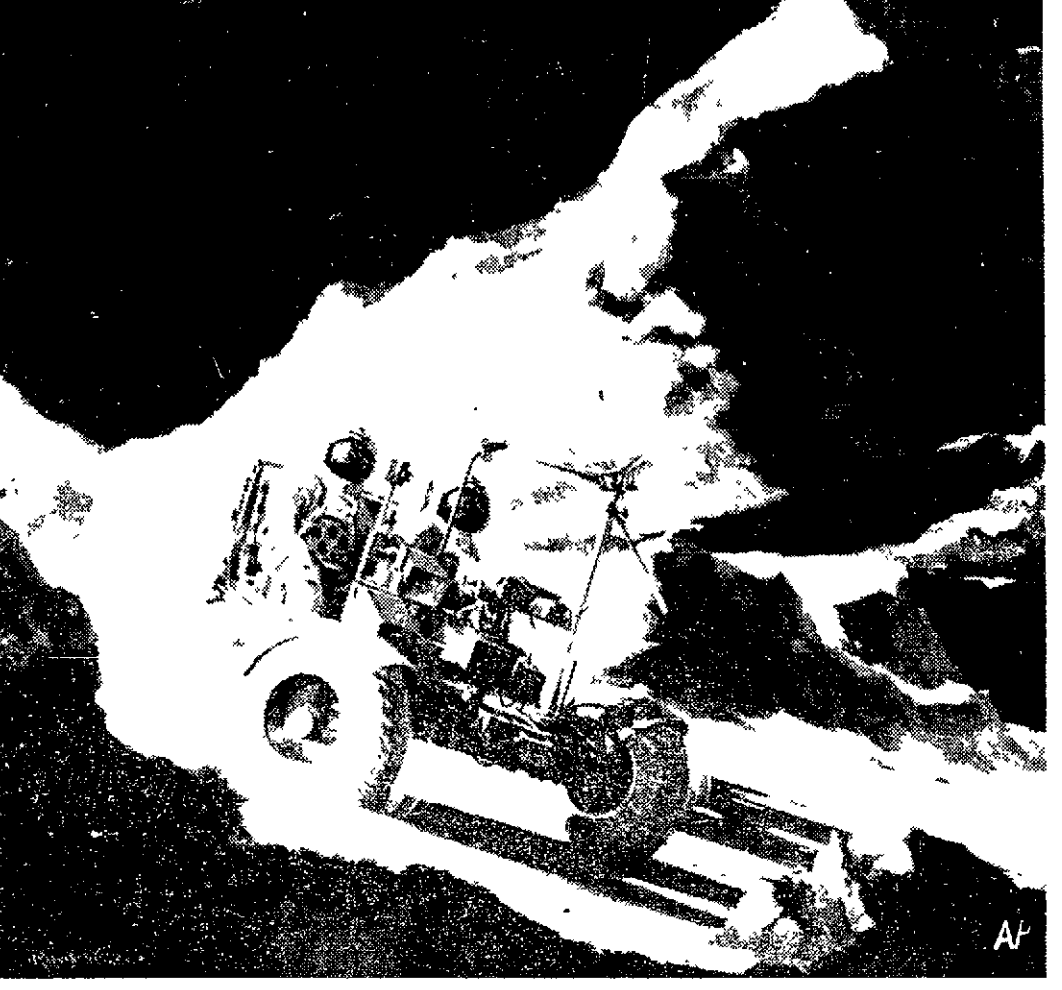

Suited For Maneuvers

During critical maneuvers, such as separation and docking of the two vehicles and liftoff of the lunar ship from the moon, the astronauts wear their spacesuits. These would protect them if there is sudden depressurization.

An almost foolproof solution to a depressurization problem would be to wear the suits at all times. But the spacemen would get very uncomfortable. Americans still wear them during launch and other crucial maneuvers, but not during re-entry because procedures there are considered safe, and there is time to slip into the suits if something went wrong.

The Russians abandoned spacesuits early in the Soyuz program. The cosmonauts wear coverall-type flight suits throughout the mission.

There is only one change being made for Apollo 15 as a result of the Soyuz 11 tragedy. When the lunar module is jettisoned in lunar orbit after the moon exploration, all three astronauts will wear their suits instead of coveralls.

Nixon Proposes Conversion Of FDA

Washington (UPI) — President Nixon proposed Monday that the 64-year-old Food and Drug Administration (FDA) be converted into a new consumer safety administration with authority over household products as well as foods and drugs.

Under Nixon's plan, the new agency, like the present FDA, would be part of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW). The administration proposal differed from a Democratic sponsored bill to regulate hazardous household products under a new products from lawn mowers to window glass, and to ban particularly dangerous items.

HEW Secretary Elliot L. Richardson presented a letter from Nixon to Magnuson outlining the proposed new agency.

"This unit will build upon the activities, personnel and facilities of the FDA, which has a long and distinguished history in the field of consumer safety, primarily in the vital regulation of the foods we eat and the drugs we use," the Nixon letter said.

"The consumer safety administration will continue the work of the FDA. At the same time the new unit will be structured so that the regulation of hazardous consumer products authorized in (the administration bill) will have the facilities, the personnel, and the organizational prominence that will insure an effective, efficient and responsive product safety program"

Nixon Nominates William Goffe For Tax Court

Washington (UPI)—President Nixon Monday nominated William A. Goffe, an attorney from Tulsa, Okla., for a 15-year term as judge on the U.S. Tax Court. Goffe, 41, will succeed Norman O. Tietjens who is retiring.

Goffe served five years as a tax attorney for the Internal Revenue Service prior to joining the firm of Martin, Logan, Moyers, Martin and Conway in Tulsa.

The President's plan, however, appeared to respond in part to suggestions by Sens. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., and Frank E. Moss, D-Utah, that a new agency be created.

The administration proposal was unveiled before Magnuson's Senate Commerce Committee at a hearing on rival administration and Democratic bills. This would empower the government to set safety standards for household

Telephone Union, Bell In Agreement

Washington (AP) — The Communications Workers of America announced an agreement with the Bell Telephone System Monday that would end the nationwide telephone strike.

CWA President Joseph A. Beirne said the agreement that would cost telephone companies a combined $4 billion more over the next three years still depends on union member ratification but that the workers would return to their jobs beginning midnight Tuesday.

The CWA's 400,000 members walked off the job last Wednesday morning over wages, pension improvements and job security. Another 100,000 members of other unions honored the picket lines.

The pact the CWA executive board is recommending for member approval amounts to a 33.5% boost in wages and benefits, an agency shop, and a cost-of-living feature which adds any increase in the national cost of living index to a telephone worker's wages.

Basic wage increases for most workers would range from $16.50 to $29 a week in the first year and a maximum $17.50 over the remaining next two years.

The union also won extra pay for telephone workers in big cities, the top being $9 a week extra for telephone men in New York City.

The first year basic wage increase amounts to 12.8%.

Transportation Union To Strike 6 Railroads

Washington (AP) — The United Transportation Union Monday announced strikes against six more railroads in its protest against nationwide work rule changes.

Strikes against the Southern and Union Pacific railroads were in the fourth day, idling 48,000.

Negotiators still were talking, but giving no hint of being near an agreement when the UTU announced the new set of strike threats.

Strike deadlines earlier were set for Friday against the Southern Pacific, the Norfolk & Western, and the commuter-carrying Chicago and North Western. A CNW spokesman said the strike threat against the road had been removed, but a UTU spokesman said it is off only until Friday.

Monday afternoon Cleveland headquarters of the UTU announced 6 a.m. Friday, July 30, as strike deadlines for these new roads. Alton & Southern; Houston Belt & Terminal; Duluth, Missabe & Iron Range; Elgin, Joliet & Eastern; Bessemer & Lake Erie.

Some of the lines are small, connecting and switcher roads, valuable in feeding and maintaining the flow of freight and raw materials.

"We're trying to avoid a national rail emergency," said a UTU spokesman, Lou Corsi. "We have got to pick and choose very carefully."

Bell Phone Strike Ends

... 3-Year Agreement Reached

Omaha (AP) — Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. workers in the five-state upper Midwest area were to return to work at 10:59 p.m. CDT Tuesday as the result of a tentative agreement reached in national negotiations early Monday morning.

D. K. Gordon, vice president of Communications Workers of America (CWA) District 7, said the 18,159 members in the district would be back on the job in Minnesota, the Dakotas, Iowa and Nebraska pending ratification of the three-year contract. He said ratification, by mail ballot, would take 28 days.

Gordon said District 7 also represents 2,848 non-union Bell employees.

Announcement of the agreement, calling for a package of wage and benefit increases of more than 33.5%, came in a nationwide news conference hookup from Joseph A. Beirne, national president.

Northwestern Bell President Thomas S. Nurnberger said Monday, "The wage offer negotiated with the CWA is an expensive one for the company, totaling an estimated $60 million over the next three years."

"It comes, as many of our customers already know, at a time when we are having to seek higher rates in order to offset the effects of inflation and continually rising costs."

A telephone company official said that in the five-state Northwestern Bell area wage rates would increase by from $18.50 to $25 per week in the first year of the contract. In the second year, wages would rise by from $5.00 to $7.50, plus a cost of living formula index.

The second year cost of living index provides, for example, a $5.50 per week wage increase if the federal Consumer Price Index raises by 4%.

In the third year, the spokesman said, wages would rise from $5.50 to $8 per week, with the cost of living formula for 4% increase being an additional $6 per week.

The spokesman said the union shop provision of the contract does not apply in the Dakotas, Nebraska or Iowa.

Improved vacation, pension and hospitalization benefits also are included in the pact, along with a big city wage differential for workers in Minneapolis.

Under the old contract telephone workers pay ranged from $101 weekly for women clerks to $193 weekly for central office switchmen in larger cities, the union said. The nationwide average for all workers was $123.50 per week.

In Omaha, Gordon said the strike, which began at 6 a.m. local time, last Wednesday, along with marathon negotiations had "attained most of our objectives."

He said the strike "wasn't necessary at all." But, Gordon told newsmen, the Bell System's "effort to stampede the union into a last minute take it or leave it offer" forced the CWA Executive Board to call the strike.

Northwestern Bell also was idled for 12 days in a 1968 strike, a union official said.

Search Continues For Youth Feared Victim Of Drowning

A Lincoln youth, Ricky Cadwallader, 17, apparently drowned Saturday in a swimming accident near Nebraska City, officials in the Fremont County sheriff's office in Sidney, Iowa, reported. Efforts are continuing in search of the body.

The Lincolnite was one of four corn detasslers in a group of 25, who went swimming in the Missouri River, about half a mile south of the Nebraska City bridge.

Sheriff Bob Jenkins of Sidney, Iowa, said the young men were caught in the strong river current and the Lincoln youth was swept away, despite the efforts of his companions who formed a human chain, reaching out into the river.

The youth, the son of Mrs. Phillip Becker of 900 No. 57th and Dean Cadwallader of Rt. 3, both of Lincoln, was the farthest one out in the river. The other three swimmers were pulled to safety, the sheriff said.

Valley Boy, 5, Loses His Life In Lake Mishap

Valley (AP)—James A. Frazier, 5, of Omaha died in an Omaha hospital Sunday after being pulled from Valley Lake, two miles west of here, by his stepfather.

Douglas County sheriff's officers said other children in the family noticed the boy was missing and began a search for him.

He was found in about three feet of water some 15 feet from the shore officers said.

He died shortly after being taken to an Omaha hospital.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Recently, State Senator Gerald Stromer of Kearney, president of Nebraska State Republicans, criticized the Nebraska League of Young Voters. The league is an organization of mostly University of Nebraska students and is a non-partisan political group.

Stromer took issue with the group for working outside the ranks of the two major political parties and was of the opinion that they could serve no useful purpose as a non-partisan group. The times, however, are not on Stromer's side as the non-partisan approach to government seems to grow stronger every day.

Nor do we agree that the league will be unable to have a constructive influence on the scene. What the league will look at are the issues as opposed to the candidates and this is becoming a constantly more popular approach by the citizenry.

Stromer could be right at some time in the future but the non-partisan approach still is not large enough to seriously damage the two-party system. This is a system that has served the nation well and we would agree with Stromer that it should not be destroyed.

There is room within that system, however, for some non-partisanship, even on an organized basis. There are weaknesses in the two-party system that find at least partial correction in the voting patterns of those people who are not enamored of party labels.

By and large, it cannot be said that the two parties have produced bad candidates for public office but it has happened. One of the dangers of the two-party system is that it can come to be controlled by a small handful of people.

In a state such as Nebraska, there is further danger in the dominance of one party over another. Nebraska will elect a Democrat to office now and then but it is the exception. The rule is that the Republicans walk off with far more victories at the polls than the Democrats.

The only time a Democrat wins in Nebraska is when he is able to pick up substantial numbers of Republican votes, such as Gov. J. James Exon did in 1970. But this tends to give the candidates on both sides of the fence a very similar look and to deny the electorate much of any real choice.

In the last gubernatorial election, the Democrats won by being more conservative in fiscal matters than the GOP. In the next election for governor, the GOP is likely to come back with another conservative candidate and if Exon chooses to run again and is nominated, the Democrats will present a conservative candidate.

Thus, the heavy party line voting in Nebraska tends to drive everyone into the same camp philosophically because it is the only way you can win. It is tough for the progressive or liberal voice in Nebraska to be heard because it is near suicide politically to advocate it.

With such a domination of things ideologically, the spotlight does not shine very brightly on individuals. Nebraska's third congressional district is another place where this is true. Some fine Democratic candidates have run there against Rep. Dave Martin but his conservatism seems to make him invulnerable to attack.

A Democrat in the Third District would have little chance even if he were a real conservative simply because the party label voting in that area is so strong. The existence of non-partisan groups and individuals tends to reverse this situation by paying no attention to party labels.

That is a constructive force on the scene so long as it does not lead to an ultimate proliferation of parties. There is always the danger of third-party movements in non-partisan groups but there is some danger in just everything we do.

We would not want to see non-partisanship the dominant influence on the scene but it is still a long way from that. The two-party system has seen a lot of splinter movements come and go and there will be plenty of them in the future.

To date, such movements have not destroyed either party and we doubt that they will in the very near future. In the meantime, they can serve to stimulate the two major parties into more responsive and responsible groups.

Life-long Fatty Can't Be Cured

NEW YORK—Now that the bathing suit season is upon us (and a pox on all full-length mirrors!) it may bring some small comfort to know that the reason we bulge in the middle isn't always because we ate those French fries for lunch.

It just might be because we gorged on our oatmeal back when the closest we came to a bikini was a three-cornered cloth with safety pins.

Yep, it's official. Scientists have discovered that cute little babies who gobble up everything in sight build excess fat cells that stay with them the rest of their not-so-cute lives.

And because of those extra cells, they are doomed to be fat, fat, fat forever. As long as they insist on eating, that is.

The only way they can beat it (as if you didn't know) is to find a near-starvation diet... stay on it as long as they live... and try not to hear those hungry little cells crying out for a piece of chocolate fudge cake.

Because that's what they do, you know. If, by some miracle of self-control, you manage to get that blubber off your bones, those sneaky cells go whining to your hypothalamus (that part of your brain that controls your appetite), which immediately sends out signals that translate into: "Let's have a spaghetti orgy."

Many a fatty reads that message loud and clear. He's as addicted to visions of food as a junkie is to his next fix. And, more often than not, he is off on a face-stuffing binge that can last for hours.

The only difference is a junkie can be cured—a life-long fatty cannot. Research scientists experimenting by surgically removing excess fat cells from rats. The cells immediately grew back again.

It seems everyone has a certain number of fat cells. Nature places them in the body between the skin and the muscles—to collect food, store it, and deliver it to the bloodstream for energy.

Nobody knows yet whether we are all born with the same number, but scientists do know fat cells can triple or quadruple in the first few months of life. And, once you collect them, you're stuck with them forever.

How much food they store, apparently, depends on how much you send down. But they're always there, waiting to blow up at the drop of a salted peanut. Keep them empty long enough, and they start screaming for food.

Some doctors think this is why an obese person who manages to starve off 100 pounds on a crash diet usually starts putting them back the minute he passes his first hot-dog stand.

And who's to blame for this frenzy of eating that produces so many miserable rotty-poly foodaholics? I thought you'd never ask. Who else but Mother, of course, who lovingly force-feeds her pride and joy into a cuddlesome bundle of curves and dimples—and excess fat cells.

He may be the cutest one in the baby carriage set... but she'd better, doctors say, if she worried more about the kind of figure he'll cut on the beach 25 years from now.

As for the rest of us... what the heck, let it spread. We can always bury ourselves in the sand.

And now, if you'll excuse me, I hear my fat cells calling. I wonder what's in the refrigerator.

Strikes Hit Nation

Had the young people of America tied up major transportation and communications networks, the public reaction would have been enormous. But the railroads, Western Union and shipping companies are now crippled by striking labor unions.

When the whole thing is finally over, millions of dollars will have been lost, along with some lives. The strikes always seem to bring isolated cases of violence in which at least a few people are killed.

At the heart of the railroad strike against two major lines is the old bugaboo of working conditions, the unions trying to cling to jobs that have long been outmoded. Involved in all the strikes is the matter of pay and fringe benefits.

Where, however, can you really place the blame? We cannot condone the continuation of jobs that are uneeded but the area of pay represents half of a two-part problem faced by the nation.

In the face of continuing inflation, strikes are hard to take because they push salaries up. This pushes production costs which lead to higher prices.

Or maybe it is the other way around—higher prices demanding higher pay. Either way, it is working against the best interests of the economy in general and it is unfortunate that the nation continues to be plagued by the problem.

The history of our economy has clearly shown that abuses ultimately lead to the kind of government action no one really wants. Labor knows this and so does management but, somehow, the two are unable to do anything about it.

Perhaps the economy will manage to survive the current rash of strikes but we would not be surprised if this kind of endless conflict between labor and management is not some day brought under control by action of Congress. Such control could ultimately prove to be the only option left open for us.

Work And Imagination Needed

Selection by the Lincoln Transit Advisory Committee of a new city bus manager is a faltering first step. It may prove to be a good step or it may prove otherwise. We do not see in management of a truck delivery system the background that will make the new city bus manager a winner but the new manager, approved Monday by the City Council, deserves the chance to prove himself.

We do not see in the $12,000 annual salary a drawing card that would bring a very outstanding man to this city position but, again, we will wait and see what happens.

Everyone knows the immediate problems of the Lincoln transit operation. Running on time, cleaning up the buses and buying new buses are everybody's priority items.

But beyond that are the innovative and imaginative programs, that will likely make or break the city's new venture into the field of public transportation. We need to educate the public on riding buses and we could well experiment with some programs to entice people onto the buses.

Additionally, it would be well for the city to look at the charter business to see if the operation could not pick up something here that would help subsidize the regular route runs. The city, for instance, should at least talk to the schools, its own Recreation Department and other groups or institutions about the possibility of providing transportation for them.

We need to take a good look at some kind of express service and the possibility of a kind of dual system of integrated service in the downtown and in the suburban areas. A new bus-washing machine and even the addition of mostly new buses will not be enough to make the transit system what it might be and certainly what it ought to be.

Senator Eastland, Fat-Cat Corporate Farmer, Receives Large Cotton Subsidy By Gimmick

WASHINGTON — The new welfare reform bill, if passed, will provide the munificent total of $2,400 a year for a family of four providing the family meets the work rules and survives the other red tape in which the program will be wrapped.

On Capitol Hill, any number of social programs are in trouble because of inadequate funding. In huge cities like New York, taxpayers are on the verge of revolt but the budgets they are supporting are still woefully inadequate to minimum public needs.

Universities and school systems everywhere are in trouble for lack of funds; hospital fees have gone out of sight; and the lugubrious listing of financial deficiencies could go on for the length of this article. That wouldn't be so bad if the country were really hard up for money, and everyone suffered alike.

But that isn't the case. This is a country where the rich get richer, and not just because they are smarter or have more capital; the system tends to be rigged in their favor. The oil depletion allowance is a well-known example; so is the fact that persons wealthy enough to buy blocs of municipal bonds can live virtually tax-free. Some incredibly wealthy men can find the means to escape taxes altogether.

Gov. Ronald Reagan of California recently conceded that, due to "business reverses," he had paid no state income tax last year. The worst thing about that is that undoubtedly he was truthful in protesting that he had done nothing illegal; the painful fact is that it is perfectly possible for a man being paid $40,000 a year in America, if he has outside business interests, to pay no state income tax, although that would be virtually impossible for someone earning $8,000 or $9,000 a year with no other income.

The latest government gimmick for those who are already rich turns out to be last year's decision to put a $55,000 limit per crop on the amount any farmer could be paid in agricultural subsidies.

As cynics expected all along, the big farming interests and the Department of Agriculture administrators collaborated to turn this limitation into a farce.

Sen. James O. Eastland of Mississippi and his family, for one example, received about $160,000 in cotton subsidies in 1970. This year — according to an authoritative report by Nick Kotz in the Washington Post — the Eastlands met the $55,000 limitation by creating eight new business entities to farm their 5,200-acre farm. The result is an estimated federal subsidy of $159,925 for this year. No doubt the Eastland legal costs for these arrangements were substantial, but that is still pretty good footwork and a pretty fat take.

It need scarcely be pointed out that Eastland and his Mississippi constituency are among the leaders in decrying the supposed sloth and lack of moral fiber of poor people receiving welfare assistance from the government. In fact, not a few of those needing welfare were displaced by machines from just such farms as the senator's; and they have no way to divide themselves into eight parts in order to outpace their "handout."

Classical Music

Lincoln, Neb.

There is a sinister conspiracy in Lincoln. It affects every radio station — AM and FM — and thus every radio listener, which includes most of us.

When was the last time you heard classical music from your radio? Remember the pleasant strains of Prokofiev, Albeniz, Youmans, Offenbach, Liszt, and Adam? Remember them well, for they may never be heard here again. Classical music in Lincoln is being subtly squeezed off the air.

Here is how the anti-classical conspiracy apparently works. In a city such as our Lincoln — Great Plains flower of culture, home of three great universities and an independent-minded citizenry — the demand for classical music must be significant if not overwhelming. How could our sophisticated listeners put up with the pap now played on the air were the stations to follow the system of supply and demand? The classical record companies are surely in illegal combination with radio stations and phonograph manufacturers in order to make our thousands of classical music listeners buy expensive equipment and records.

Let's end this conspiracy now by refusing to buy any more classical records or phonographs until real music — not sterile muzak or noise called rock — returns to the air.

I would especially like to say a big thank-you to Mrs. June Moore who does such a marvelous job of teaching. She is an unusually fine teacher who presents the very difficult basics of playing in such a way that it is fun. In addition, she teaches music appreciation and history as it applies to the music played in class. She is what I would call a truly great teacher and the scores of children in the public schools who have been privileged to receive her instruction are indeed fortunate.

What We Spend

Lincoln, Neb.

The Army's own General George I. Forsyth, special assistant to the Army chief of staff, said in the Armed Forces Journal that we now have 35,000 GI's doing KP work, and 60,000 other GI's mowing lawns and doing other non-military household chores. Keeping that in mind, plus the state of our economy and the unemployment rate, plus the fact that without a draft law, we will be short only from 20,000 to 40,000 men, depending on the size of the pay increases to be approved for the armed services—adding all those facts, does it not seem logical to abolish the draft, convert those non-military jobs to civilian status thereby ending the use of a draft law as a device to appropriate slave labor for domestic services?

Whether that would cost any more than we presently spend is still a question. In any case, the cost per job would certainly not approach the cost of Nixon's most generous welfare proposal—the $250 million for Lockheed which Nixon says would save 25,000 jobs. That's $10,000 per job. Not a bad welfare check.

About the only national idiosyncrasy I can think of that tops our unnecessary draft laws and the Lockheed deal would be our farm support program in Turkey where American dollars go to pay Turkish farmers not to grow poppies, while folks like Senator Eastland get several hundred thousand dollars per year not to grow his crops, and all the while the small family farms of America gradually go broke as our tax money goes to pay men who don't want to kill and cut grass and peel potatoes in the unemployment rate goes higher along with inflation, and the President argues in favor of another term for himself. How about that!

DON PETERSEN

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has ichthyosis. Is there any treatment or cure for this condition? —Mrs. P.

This condition — a hardening and drying of the outer layer of the skin — is also called fish skin disease and xeroderma.

Whether to try to do anything about it depends on how annoying it happens to be. If it is sufficiently mild, forget about it.

But if it is genuinely bothersome, the only thing to do is to keep the skin as soft and pliable as possible, with lanolin or other oily preparations. A dermatologist may be able to prescribe a lotion that will help soften the skin more effectively, but don't expect a "cure." It's just the way the skin behaves with some people.

Some people recommend a diet high in fats, but since most of us eat more fats than we need anyway, I have reservations on that. I doubt whether it helps the skin, and for the long-term effect on health, we're all better off not to get too much fat.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you write about mycosis, which is supposed to be a rare disease? —Mrs. V.H.

Mycosis is the term applied to any disease caused by a fungus. Depending on the variety, it can be rare or common.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son suffered stomach pains and loose funny stools. Tests and X rays showed nothing. Out of sheer desperation I took him off milk. He immediately improved. Later I tried him on half milk, half water, but this made him ill. The same with skimmed, powdered, or 2 percent milk. What should I give him to supplement the milk? He has eaten cheese until it is running out his ears. —Mrs. S.F.

Poor kid! But some youngsters just can't tolerate milk, and you have to find other ways of giving them what they need. This, fortunately, can be done.

Cheese is a good source of two of the valuable items in milk, protein and calcium, but enough cheese is enough cheese, no doubt. Soy bean milk or products made with it is a pretty good substitute when there's an intolerance to cow's milk. Soy beans contain a good deal of calcium, although not as much as in cow's milk. Still, he gets calcium from other foods: cereals, fruits, vegetables. Usually milk substitutes also have calcium added. If necessary, your physician can recommend calcium preparations that can be taken by mouth.

The other ingredients of milk can also be made up from other foods, but the calcium is the big item.

You've been very logical in giving him cheese, but don't push the cheese so rigorously that he can't stand the sight of it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please clear up a question for me. Food experts advocate drinking milk, and they emphasize calcium and protein. Most vitamins are destroyed with heat, so what happens when milk is pasteurized? I was told that the protein is still there but there was no mention of calcium — E.R.

The calcium and protein both remain in full quantity.

As to vitamins, I wouldn't say that "most" are destroyed by heat. Some are; some aren't affected.

The principal vitamins in milk are some of the B group, C, A, and D.

True, the heat destroys vitamin C, but that is readily available from citrus fruit or juice, tomato juice, and other fruits and vegetables, and milk just isn't a significant source of C.

The B vitamins, present only in small amount, aren't affected.

The A and D vitamins in milk are lost not from pasteurization but from being removed — if you are drinking skim milk or 2 percent milk. Much of the cream (the fat) has been removed, and that was where the A and D vitamins lodged.

Therefore in skim or 2 percent milk, 400 units of vitamin D are added per quart. And as for vitamin A, other fats in the diet (plus yellow vegetables) provide ample amounts for all of us unless we have some need for extra quantities. That can be given in capsule form if need be.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a man of 50 to increase his strength by exercise and diet? —B.H.

Yes, within reason. In diet, put emphasis on ample protein and fruits and vegetables. If you are overweight, reduce.

At your age, exercise should be moderate at first — walking, simple calisthenics. Before going on to jogging or more vigorous exercise or sports, better have your heart and blood pressure checked.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Recently, State Senator Gerald Stromer of Kearney, president of Nebraska Young Republicans, criticized the Nebraska League of Young Voters. The league is an organization of mostly University of Nebraska students and is a non-partisan political group.

Stromer took issue with the group for working outside the ranks of the two major political parties and was of the opinion that they could serve no useful purpose as a non-partisan group. The times, however, are not on Stromer's side as the non-partisan approach to government seems to grow stronger every day.

Nor do we agree that the league will be unable to have a constructive influence on the scene. What the league will look at are the issues as opposed to the candidates and this is becoming a constantly more popular approach by the citizenry.

Stromer could be right at some time in the future but the non-partisan approach still is not large enough to seriously damage the two-party system. This is a system that has served the nation well and we would agree with Stromer that it should not be destroyed.

There is room within that system, however, for some non-partisanship, even on an organized basis. There are weaknesses in the two-party system that find at least partial correction in the voting patterns of those people who are not enamored of party labels.

By and large, it cannot be said that the two parties have produced bad candidates for public office but it has happened. One of the dangers of the two-party system is that it can come to be controlled by a small handful of people.

In a state such as Nebraska, there is further danger in the dominance of one party over another. Nebraska will elect a Democrat to office now and then but it is the exception. The rule is that the Republicans walk off with far more victories at the polls than the Democrats.

in the Lincoln String Plan this summer and I would like to express my appreciation to the Lincoln Public Schools for making this fine program available.

I would especially like to say a big thank-you to Mrs. June Moore who does such a marvelous job of teaching. She is an unusually fine teacher who presents the very difficult basics of playing in such a way that it is fun. In addition, she teaches music appreciation and history as it applies to the music played in class. She is what I would call a truly great teacher and the scores of children in the public schools who have been privileged to receive her instruction are indeed fortunate.

What We Spend

Lincoln, Neb.

The Army's own General George I. Forsyth, special assistant to the Army chief of staff, said in the Armed Forces Journal that we now have 35,000 GI's doing KP work, and 60,000 other GI's mowing lawns and doing other non-military household chores. Keeping that in mind, plus the state of our economy and the unemployment rate, plus the fact that without a draft law, we will be short only from 20,000 to 40,000 men, depending on the size of the pay increases to be approved for the armed services—adding all those facts, does it not seem logical to abolish the draft, convert those non-military jobs to civilian status thereby ending the use of a draft law as a device to appropriate slave labor for domestic services?

Whether that would cost any more than we presently spend is still a question. In any case, the cost per job would certainly not approach the cost of Nixon's most generous welfare proposal—the $250 million for Lockheed which Nixon says would save 25,000 jobs. That's $10,000 per job. Not a bad welfare check.

About the only national idiocy I can think of that tops our unnecessary draft laws and the Lockheed deal would be our farm support program in Turkey where American dollars go to pay Turkish farmers not to grow poppies, while folks like Senator Eastland get several hundred thousand dollars per year not to grow his crops, and all the while the small family farms of America gradually go broke as our tax money goes to pay men who don't want to kill and cut grass and peel potatoes as the unemployment rate goes higher along with inflation, and the President argues in favor of another term for himself.

Little Things

Lincoln, Neb.

Recently large healthy shrubbery was removed from in front of the governor's mansion at a cost of over $2,000. The past week, scraggly and dying shrubs at the north entrance to the Capitol were sprayed with green paint to enhance their appearance. What kind of thinking prompted this action? Why couldn't the shrubs from the mansion have been salvaged for transfer?

It's a "little thing," but those "little things" multiplied are costing the taxpayer.

DON PETERSEN

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son has ichthyosis. Is there any treatment or cure for this condition?—Mrs. P.

This condition—a hardening and drying of the outer layer of the skin—is also called fish skin disease and xeroderma.

Whether to try to do anything about it depends on how annoying it happens to be. If it is sufficiently mild, forget about it.

But if it is genuinely bothersome, the only thing to do is to keep the skin as soft and pliable as possible, with lanolin or other oily preparations. A dermatologist may be able to prescribe a lotion that will help soften the skin more effectively, but don't expect a "cure." It's just the way the skin behaves with some people.

Some people recommend a diet high in fats, but since most of us eat more fats than we need anyway, I have reservations on that. I doubt whether it helps the skin, and for the long-term effect on health, we're all better off not to get too much fat.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Will you write about mycosis, which is supposed to be a rare disease?—Mrs. V.H.

Mycosis is the term applied to any disease caused by a fungus. Depending on the variety, it can be rare or common.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Our son suffered stomach pains and loose funny stools. Tests and X rays showed nothing. Out of sheer desperation I took him off milk. He immediately improved. Later I tried him on half milk, half water, but this made him ill. The same with skimmed, powdered, or 2 per cent milk. What should I give him to supplement the milk? He has eaten cheese until it is running out his ears.—Mrs. S.F.

Poor kid! But some youngsters just can't tolerate milk, and you have to find other ways of giving them what they need. This, fortunately, can be done.

Cheese is a good source of two of the valuable items in milk, protein and calcium, but enough cheese is enough cheese, no doubt.

Soy bean milk or products made with it is a pretty good substitute when there's an intolerance to cow's milk. Soy beans contain a good deal of calcium, although not as much as in cow's milk. Still, he gets calcium from other foods: cereals, fruits, vegetables. Usually milk substitutes also have calcium added. If necessary, your physician can recommend calcium preparations that can be taken by mouth.

The other ingredients of milk can also be made up from other foods, but the calcium is the big item.

You've been very logical in giving him cheese, but don't push the cheese so rigorously that he can't stand the sight of it.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please clear up a question for me. Food experts advocate drinking milk, and they emphasize calcium and protein. Most vitamins are destroyed with heat, so what happens when milk is pasteurized? I was told that the protein is still there but there was no mention of calcium—E.R.

The calcium and protein both remain in full quantity.

As to vitamins, I wouldn't say that "most" are destroyed by heat. Some are; some aren't affected.

The principal vitamins in milk are some of the B group, C, A, and D.

True, the heat destroys vitamin C, but that is readily available from citrus fruit or juice, tomato juice, and other fruits and vegetables, and milk just isn't a significant source of C.

The B vitamins, present only in small amount, aren't affected.

The A and D vitamins in milk are lost not from pasteurization but from being removed—if you are drinking skim milk or 2 percent milk. Much of the cream (the fat) has been removed, and that was where the A and D vitamins lodged.

Therefore in skim or 2 percent milk, 400 units of vitamin D are added per quart. And as for vitamin A, other fats in the diet (plus yellow vegetables) provide ample amounts for all of us unless we have some need for extra quantities. That can be given in capsule form if need be.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Is it possible for a man of 50 to increase his strength by exercise and diet?—B.H.

Yes, within reason. In diet, put emphasis on ample protein and fruits and vegetables. If you are overweight, reduce.

At your age, exercise should be moderate at first—walking, simple calisthenics. Before going on to jogging or more vigorous exercise or sports, better have your heart and blood pressure checked.

Thailand Said Largely Successful In Countering Red Insurgency

•The New York Times
By DREW MIDDLETON
Bangkok, Thailand — Premier Thanom Kittikachorn told government workers here recently that U.S. withdrawal from Vietnam would increase "the danger to Thailand" because "the Communists will intensify their war of insurgency against us."
That war's potential was underlined some 48 hours later.
Five Thai soldiers were killed when insurgents ambushed a truckload of troops in the Kra Isthmus of southern Thailand. The same day, border policemen clashed with a Communist group on Thailand's frontier with Laos hundreds of miles to the east.

Largely Successful
Nevertheless, American military and diplomatic officials believe the premier's fears and the two incidents should be seen in the perspective of the largely successful counterinsurgency campaign waged by the Thai government for the last six years. They do not expect massive expansion of the insurgency after the withdrawal from Vietnam. Even if such expansion develops, the Americans believe the Thais can handle it.

Thailand's success in containing insurgency is considered by Americans to be a working model for the Nixon Doctrine elsewhere in the world.
The doctrine sees allied nations assuming the primary burden of their defense. The United States, which has air bases here, has not been directly involved in Thailand's counterinsurgency operations. Thailand has provided the bulk of the training, the material, the money and the men for the campaign.

Began In 1965
Communist insurgency here began in 1965 after Chinese Foreign Minister Chen Yi announced that there would soon be a people's war of liberation in Thailand.
The movement has concentrated on three areas: the northeast along the Laotian frontier, the north, where Thailand thrusts between Burma and Laos, and the southeast, in the mountains on the east side of the Kra Isthmus.
Most insurgents are Thais trained at the insurgency school of the Communist Party of Thailand at Hoa Binh, near Hanoi, North Vietnam.
The government's first response was to organize a district officers academy. Students were taught modern social and economic development programs. They were instructed to take an active interest in the population's needs and to be honest in their dealings. Today 70% of the district officers in the northeast are graduates of that school.
The government's most effective countermeasure in the northeast was a road-building program. In 1965 only 17% of the people of the area were within a day's journey of a main road. Today the figure is 87%.

As feeder roads crept out from the main highways to isolated villages, farmers were able to bring products to market and to buy consumer goods. The region changed slowly from a subsistence economy to a prosperous agrarian one.

The insurgency in the north differed in character. An estimated 400 Thais and Thais of Chinese origin have organized about 2,000 Meo hillmen to seize areas in the mountains. From these recruiters are sent into the valleys.
Bangkok's first reaction was punitive expeditions. Massive firepower, however, produced only floods of refugees.

Tactics Shifted
The government then turned to the social and economic tactics used successfully in the northeast. Military operations since then have been restricted in size to company strength.
The southern insurgency represents the smallest threat. The Thai Communists there cooperate with Malaysian terrorists, who were driven into Thailand by British and Malaysian forces in the 1950s.

In all three areas the government has established bureaus for accelerating rural development, mobile medical teams and trade training units, vocational schools and farmers clubs. The United States has supported some of these with funds and advice but has not been directly involved in their operation.

Welfare Plan Termed Ridiculous

By ROBERT PETERSON
Question: — "I'm shocked that under Nixon's new plan welfare mothers would not be expected to work in order to qualify for a guaranteed annual income. As an old lady of 77, let me say this is ridiculous. My husband died and left me with two babies when I was in my 20s. There was no welfare so I had to take a factory job and find neighbors to watch the children. It was this or starve. It was hard but it built character and you can bet I wasn't tempted to fool around and have any more babies. If girls discover all they need to get on the gravy train is a baby and no husband, we're really going to get into a mess."

Answer: — Many will agree. Common sense seems to shout that having babies should never exempt mothers from the traditional requirement that people work to support themselves and their families. Yet designers of Nixon's legislation say welfare mothers should be home with their children. Those of us who disagree should write our elected officials.

Question: — "My dad is retired, lives with us and seems to have a bad back. We take him from one doctor to another and they can't find anything wrong. He practically runs the household, loves the kids, but hasn't said a kind word to my wife since he helped us buy our home two years ago and moved in without warning. He could afford to live elsewhere but whenever we mention it he says it's better to be with him when you're in poor health."

Answer: — Sounds like he's one of those elders who nurses imaginary ailments in order to justify his occupancy of the guest room. Parents shouldn't live with children unless it's absolutely necessary and compatible to all. I think you should find a suitable place nearby for your father and be firm in insisting he move to his own quarters.

Question: — "I was shocked when my parents took me along to the monthly dance at their senior citizen center. The hall was smoky and overcrowded and the orchestra was loud. Most of the women were overdressed and most of the men looked sloppy without jackets and ties. There were flirtations going on all over the place and one woman who must have been 80 climbed up on the bandstand and did a Charleston. I don't think it's dignified for old people to be carrying on like silly teenagers and told my parents so. Agree?"

Answer: — Why must older people be dignified? Assuming that elders don't violate basic laws of decency, there's nothing wrong in kicking up one's heels and having a good time. Dancing and innocent flirtations are prime ingredients in gaiety — a quality missing too long from the lives of most older people. Some young people have a stereotyped view of age and assume elders should be reserved and preserved. But fun is fun and elders are entitled to its pursuit as much as the young fry.

Question: — "How many people are past 65 years of age in the U.S., and what is their percentage in the population?"

Answer: — There are now slightly more than 20 million citizens past 65, according to a new report from the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company. These seniors represent 9.8% of the population. Ten years ago folks in this age bracket represented barely 9% of the population. The number of women past 65 is increasing slightly more rapidly than the number of males.

Overhaul In Federal School Aid Proposed

(c) Washington Star
Washington — Rep. Edith Green, D-Ore., Monday proposed a major overhaul of federal aid to education which would provide local school districts with block grants of up to 35% of their budgets by 1976, while phasing out a number of categorical aid programs.

Mrs. Green presented her plan to Democrats on the House education subcommittee and planned to discuss it with Republicans, who must weigh it against President Nixon's education revenue-sharing proposal. She proposed that block grants be graduated, with 10% of the local budgets being financed by the federal government in 1972, 15% in 1973, 20% in 1974, 25% in 1975, and 35% in 1976.

In 1972, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare would be required to phase out its special grant programs for the textbooks, experimental programs, science equipment, teacher training under the higher education act, and the provisions of the adult education act.

Within 90 days of enactment of the measure, the department would be required to submit proposals for phasing out other grant programs. But in all cases, no local school district would receive less under the new setup than it had been getting under current aid to education programs.

Eastmont
Eastborough
Park Manor
Meadow Lane

in the suburban areas

Celebrations, whether they be birthdays, anniversaries, graduations or religious occasions, are dates to be remembered and cherished as suburban residents will tell you. During the past weeks there have been not only numerous celebrations, but guests and travelers as well.

During the past weekend Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kimball celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, and in tribute to this special event, one of their daughters, Mrs. Vincent Collura of Eastmont and Mr. Collura were host and hostess at a surprise reception on Saturday evening.

The place was the Elks Club, and over 125 friends and relatives greeted the Kimballs, very much to their surprise between the hours of 5 o'clock and 7 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball's other two daughters are Mrs. Robert McFadden of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. William Klippert of Omaha. Almost everyone knows that Mr. Kimball had been associated with the Kimball Bros. Monument Co. before his retirement.

A birthday celebration was in order on Sunday, July 18 at the Eastborough home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruyle. The special day belonged to the Ruyle's daughter, Nanci, who was celebrating her 11th anniversary. On hand for the occasion were eight cousins from Wymore, and Nanci and her cousins began the day with a trip to Lincoln Municipal Airport to watch the Blue Angels at the Nebraska Air Guard headquarters. Following the exciting air show, the children returned to the Ruyle home for a backyard picnic, topped with the traditional birthday cake for dessert. Swimming at the Eastborough pool concluded the busy day for the birthday girl and her guests.

The Robert Watts family returned to their Park Manor home from a three-week vacation and are now laying out the welcome mat and preparing to open their doors to some visitors from Canada.

Taking first things first — Mrs. Watts and the children, Carroll Ann, Karen, Stephen, Julie and Mary, spent their vacation in the St. Louis, Mo., area, where they visited with relatives and spent most of their time on a farm as the guests of Mr. Watts parents, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Watts.

Mr. Watts accompanied his family to Missouri, and remained for a short visit before returning home.

Mrs. Watts and the children had a wonderful time — They enjoyed the horses, swimming, fishing, and hikes through the woods — and they even attended an old fashioned ice cream supper.

While on their vacation, the vacationers made several trips into St. Louis and the Municipal Opera House where they saw the Stuttgart Ballet, Pearl Bailey in "Hello Dolly," and Lauren Bacall in "Applause."

Now to the Canadians who will be visitors in suburbia this week. They are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Waters of Oakville, Ont., and their children, Karen, Marlene, Carol, and Janet. The Waters family will arrive in Lincoln on Wednesday and spend a week here — seeing all of the sights.

When they pack their bags to make their return journey, Miss Karen Watts will leave with them and will spend two weeks in the Waters' home in Canada.

Recent guests at the Wedgewood Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abels and their son, Matthew Shane, were Mr. and Mrs. David Dahlgren, and their son, David, Jr., of Abilene, Tex.

Vacationing Kessler Heights dwellers were Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Lowe who spent a month in South Dakota viewing the Black Hills and the famous Mount Rushmore.

Summer seems to be the ideal time for bringing people together, so it is no surprise that many high school classes of the near — and far past schedule reunions during the good 'ole summer time.

Meadow Lane residents Mr. and Mrs. Lee Zentic and their four children, Sheri Lynn, Susan Jean, Michael Lee, and six-month-old Mick Allen recently returned from an Illinois reunion.

The family left on July 7, and converged upon Rock Island, Ill. where there were plenty of relatives and friends to visit. Hosting the Nebraska family was Mrs. Zentic's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Swanson of Taylor Ridge, Ill.

The 15th Rock Island High School class reunion had much to catch up on since their 1957 graduation and Mr. and Mrs. Zentic, both Rock Island graduates, were not to be left out of the celebration. In fact, Mr. Zentic, who may be better known in Lincoln as East High School's football coach, presided at the reunion as master of ceremonies.

After a week of visiting, the Zentics returned to Lincoln on July 13.

Former Coed, Bride

The wedding of Miss Sally Melinda Breunsbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvan Breunsbach of Omaha, to Lt. Lawrence Rodney Thompson, on of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson of Lincoln, took place at the Church of the Cross in Omaha on Sunday evening, July 18. The 3 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by Dr. Ralph Gerber before a background of candles and garden flowers.

Miss Marilyn Holcomb, the maid of honor, and bridesmaid Miss Wendy Thompson of Lincoln, wore alike, floorlength frocks of blue dotted swiss, accented with lace, and carried baskets of garden flowers.

Lanny Nissen of Columbus served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included William Beach, Scott Thompson, both of Lincoln; Kent Peterson of Alma, and John Swanson.

For her wedding the bride chose a Victorian gown of embroidered organza and Val lace. Above a lace-banded waist line the fitted bodice was fashioned with a high collar and Garbo sleeves. The lace was repeated to border the long, softly gathered skirt. A half-hat of lace held to the head her short veil of illusion and she carried a nosegay of garden flowers.

Lt. Thompson and his bride will reside in Wurzburg, Germany, where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Army.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Phi Mu sorority, and received her Master's degree from the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley. Lt. Thompson received his degree in electric engineering from hle University of Nebraska.

Wedding In Kansas

The marriage of Miss Sharon Jean Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gay of Salina, Kan., to Robert Wayne Boatman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Truhlar of Salina, Kan., formerly of Lincoln, took place on Friday evening, July 2, at the First Baptist Church in Salina. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Herman Van Arsdale.

Miss Marilyn Maxey of Salina served as maid of honor, and Miss Pat Gay of Salina served her sister as bridesmaid.

Ron Goetz of Salina served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Stan Patterson, Mike McAdams and Michael Gay, all of Salina; and Gene Schrader of Assaria, Kan.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of polyester organza and Venice lace, designed in the Empire bode. The A-line silhouette skirt extended into a train of chapel length. A bandeau of the lace held in place her veil of illusion, and she carried an arrangement of blue roses and gypsophelia on a white Bible.

Following a wedding trip Mr. Boatman and his bride will reside in Salina, Kan.

The bride is a graduate of the Salina Area Vocational-Technical School, where she studied distributive education.

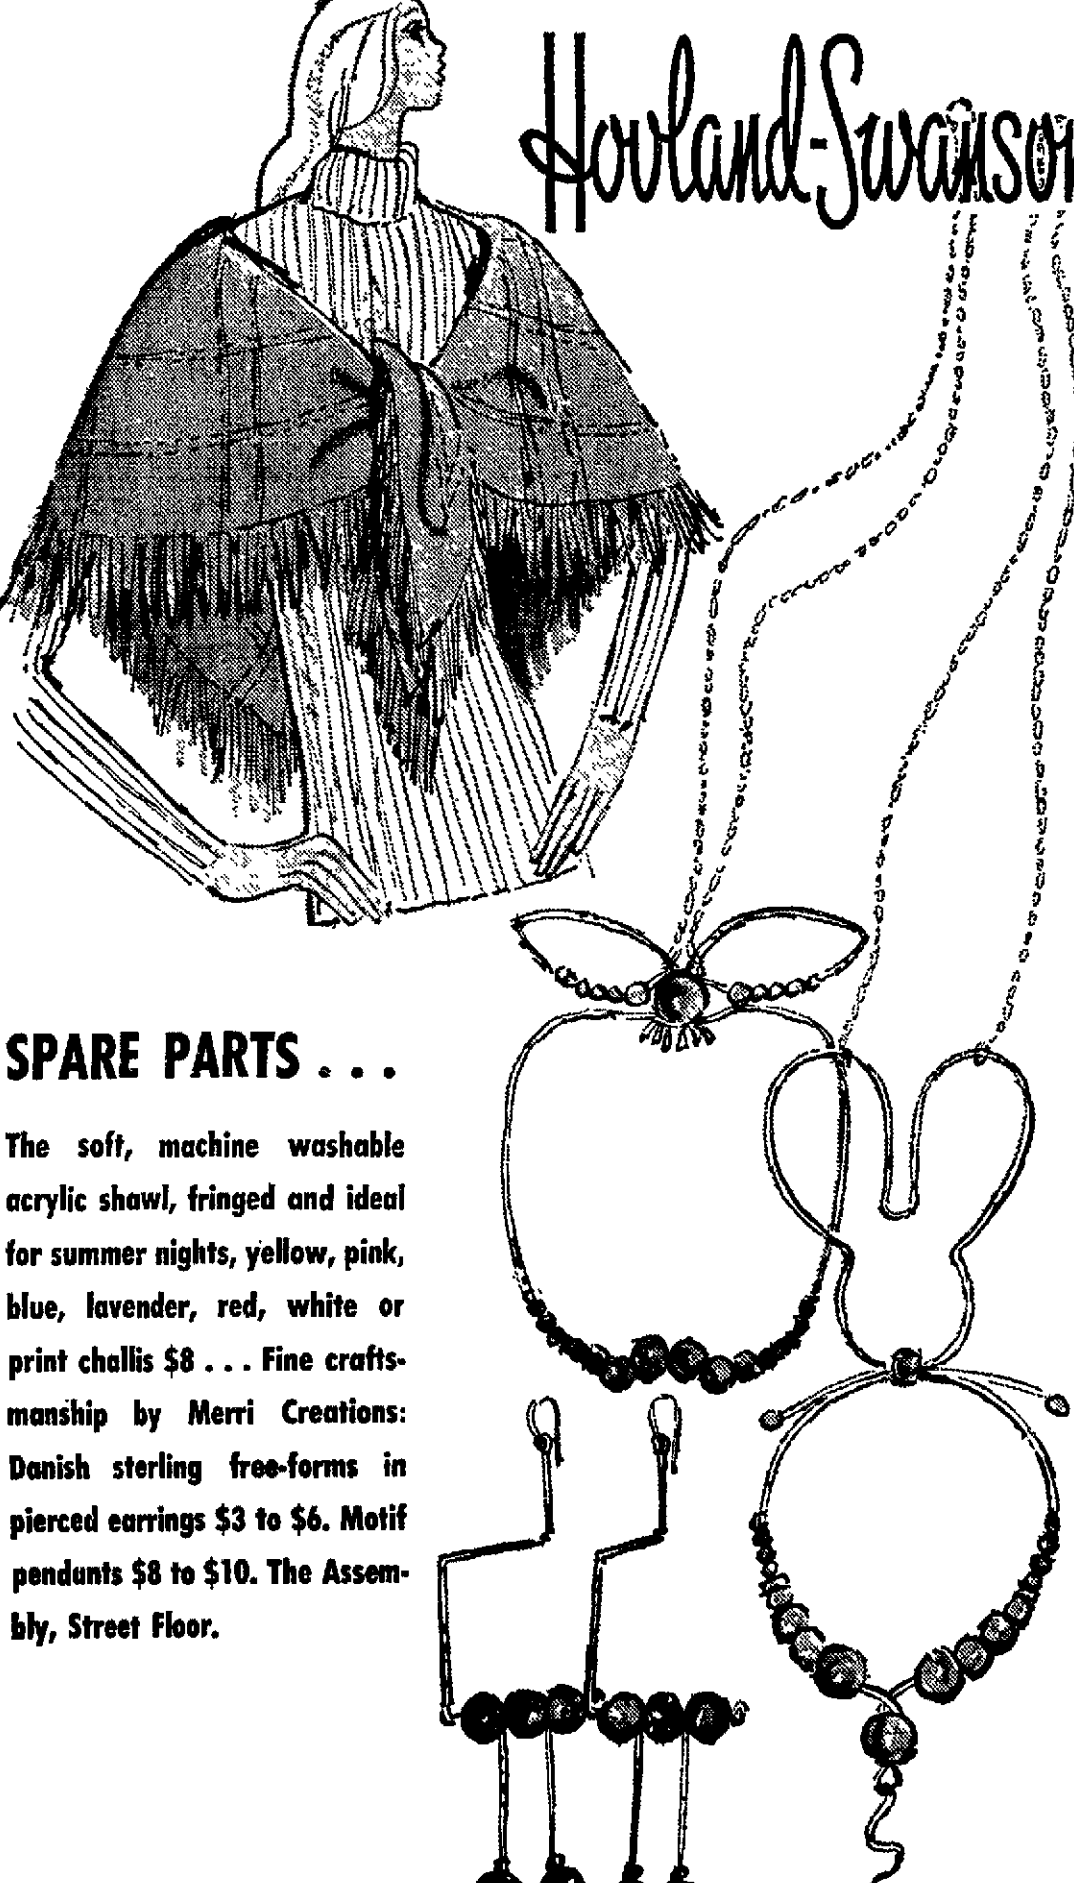

Mr. Boatman attends Salina Vocational-Technical School, where he is taking courses in drafting.

Prenuptial Courtesies

July bride-elect, Miss Shelley Kay Stoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene K. Stoll, whose marriage to J. Fred Key, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Key, will be an event of Saturday afternoon, July 24, was honored on Saturday evening, July 10 at a personal shower at the home of Mrs. Allen Sankhauser. Co-hostess for the event was Miss Alisanne Schmidt.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held Sunday, July 18, at the home of the bride-elect, and on Friday evening, July 23, the parents of the bridegroom-elect will be a host and hostess in prenuptial courtesies to their son and his fiancée when they entertain at the Clayton House.

in the suburban areas

Celebrations, whether they be birthdays, anniversaries, graduations or religious occasions, are dates to be remembered and cherished as suburban residents will tell you. During the past weeks there have been not only numerous celebrations, but guests and travelers as well.

During the past weekend Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Kimball celebrated their golden wedding anniversary, and in tribute to this special event, one of their daughters, Mrs. Vincent Collura of Eastmont and Mr. Collura were host and hostess at a surprise reception on Saturday evening.

The place was the Elks Club, and over 125 friends and relatives greeted the Kimballs, very much to their surprise between the hours of 5 o'clock and 7 o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Kimball's other two daughters are Mrs. Robert McFadden of Portland, Ore., and Mrs. William Klippert of Omaha. Almost everyone knows that Mr. Kimball had been associated with the Kimball Bros. Monument Co. before his retirement.

A birthday celebration was in order on Sunday, July 18 at the Eastborough home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Ruyle. The special day belonged to the Ruyle's daughter, Nanci, who was celebrating her 11th anniversary. On hand for the occasion were eight cousins from Wymore, and Nanci and her cousins began the day with a trip to Lincoln Municipal Airport to watch the Blue Angels at the Nebraska Air Guard headquarters. Following the exciting air show, the children returned to the Ruyle home for a backyard picnic, topped with the traditional birthday cake for dessert. Swimming at the Eastborough pool concluded the busy day for the birthday girl and her guests.

The Robert Watts family returned to their Park Manor home from a three-week vacation and are now laying out the welcome mat and preparing to open their doors to some visitors from Canada.

Taking first things first — Mrs. Watts and the children, Carroll Ann, Karen, Stephen, Julie and Mary, spent their vacation in the St. Louis, Mo., area, where they visited with relatives and spent most of their time on a farm as the guests of Mr. Watts parents, Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Watts.

Mr. Watts accompanied his family to Missouri, and remained for a short visit before returning home.

Mrs. Watts and the children had a wonderful time — They enjoyed the horses, swimming, fishing, and hikes through the woods — and they even attended an old fashioned ice cream supper.

While on their vacation, the vacationers made several trips into St. Louis and the Municipal Opera House where they saw the Stuttgart Ballet, Pearl Bailey in "Hello Dolly," and Lauren Bacall in "Applause."

Now to the Canadians who will be visitors in suburbia this week. They are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Waters of Oakville, Ont., and their children, Karen, Marlene, Carol, and Janet. The Waters family will arrive in Lincoln on Wednesday and spend a week here — seeing all of the sights.

When they pack their bags to make their return journey, Miss Karen Watts will leave with them and will spend two weeks in the Waters' home in Canada.

Recent guests at the Wedgewood Manor home of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Abels and their son, Matthew Shane, were Mr. and Mrs. David Dahlgren, and their son, David, Jr., of Abilene, Tex.

Vacationing Kessler Heights dwellers were Mr. and Mrs. Doyle Lowe who spent a month in South Dakota viewing the Black Hills and the famous Mount Rushmore.

Summer seems to be the ideal time for bringing people together, so it is no surprise that many high school classes of the near — and far past schedule reunions during the good 'ole summer time.

Meadow Lane residents Mr. and Mrs. Lee Zentic and their four children, Sheri Lynn, Susan Jean, Michael Lee, and six-month-old Mick Allen recently returned from an Illinois reunion.

The family left on July 7, and converged upon Rock Island, Ill. where there were plenty of relatives and friends to visit. Hosting the Nebraska family was Mrs. Zentic's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry V. Swanson of Taylor Ridge, Ill.

The 15th Rock Island High School class reunion had much to catch up on since their 1957 graduation and Mr. and Mrs. Zentic, both Rock Island graduates, were not to be left out of the celebration. In fact, Mr. Zentic, who may be better known in Lincoln as East High School's football coach, presided at the reunion as master of ceremonies.

After a week of visiting, the Zentics returned to Lincoln on July 13.

Former Coed, Bride

The wedding of Miss Sally Melinda Breunbach, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Melvan Breunbach of Omaha, to Lt. Lawrence Rodney Thompson, on of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Thompson of Lincoln, took place at the Church of the Cross in Omaha on Sunday evening, July 18. The 3 o'clock ceremony was solemnized by Dr. Ralph Gerber before a background of candles and garden flowers.

Miss Marilyn Holcomb, the maid of honor, and bridesmaid Miss Wendy Thompson of Lincoln, wore alike, floorlength frocks of blue dotted swiss, accented with lace, and carried baskets of garden flowers.

Lanny Nissen of Columbus served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included William Beach, Scott Thompson, both of Lincoln; Kent Peterson of Alma, and John Swanson.

For her wedding the bride chose a Victorian gown of embroidered organza and Val lace. Above a lace-banded waist line the fitted bodice was fashioned with a high collar and Garbo sleeves. The lace was repeated to border the long, softly gathered skirt. A half-hat of lace held to the head her short veil of illusion and she carried a nosegay of garden flowers.

Lt. Thompson and his bride will reside in Wurzburg, Germany, where the bridegroom is stationed with the U.S. Army.

The bride is a graduate of the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Phi Mu sorority, and received her Master's degree from the University of Northern Colorado at Greeley. Lt. Thompson received his degree in electric engineering from the University of Nebraska.

Wedding In Kansas

The marriage of Miss Sharon Jean Gay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Gay of Salina, Kan., to Robert Wayne Boatman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Truhlar of Salina, Kan., formerly of Lincoln, took place on Friday evening, July 2, at the First Baptist Church in Salina. The lines of the service were read by the Rev. Herman Van Arsdale.

Miss Marilyn Maxey of Salina served as maid of honor, and Miss Pat Gay of Salina served her sister as bridesmaid.

Ron Goetz of Salina served as best man, and the groomsmen and ushers included Stan Patterson, Mike McDams and Michael Gay, all of Salina; and Gene Schrader of Assaria, Kan.

For her wedding, the bride chose a gown of polyester organza and Venice lace, designed in the Empire mode. The A-line silhouette skirt extended into a train of chapel length. A bandeau of the lace held in place her veil of illusion, and she carried an arrangement of blue roses and gypsophelia on a white Bible.

Following a wedding trip Mr. Boatman and his bride will reside in Salina, Kan.

The bride is a graduate of the Salina Area Vocational-Technical School, where she studied distributive education.

Mr. Boatman attends Salina Vocational-Technical School, where he is taking courses in drafting.

Prenuptial Courtesies

July bride-elect, Miss Shelley Kay Stoll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene K. Stoll, whose marriage to J. Fred Key, son of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Key, will be an event of Saturday afternoon, July 24, was honored on Saturday evening, July 10 at a personal shower at the home of Mrs. Allen Sankhauser. Co-hostess for the event was Miss Alisanne Schmidt.

A bridesmaids luncheon was held Sunday, July 18, at the home of the bride-elect, and on Friday evening, July 23, the parents of the bridegroom-elect will be a host and hostess in prenuptial courtesies to their son and his fiancée when they entertain at the Clayton House.

pitted prunes

4 eggs
2 cups milk
2 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
Grated rind of 1 small orange
1½ cups strawberry jam or preserves
¼ cup slivered toasted almonds

Mix together bread cubes and chopped prunes; spoon mixture into 6 heavily buttered 6-ounce custard cups. Beat eggs with milk, sugar, vanilla and orange rind. Pour mixture over bread cubes. Set custard cups in a pan containing 1 inch of hot water. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 25 to 30 minutes or until centers are firm to the touch. Remove custard cups from water. Combine jam, orange juice and almonds. Cook over low heat, stirring, until jam melts. Unmold each pudding and serve with warm strawberry sauce.

Makes 6 servings.

DEAR ABBY: What can a mother do when she has a 19-year-old daughter who comes in at 7:30 a.m. and expects to be greeted with open arms? If I raise my voice she tells me I'm crazy.

I can't throw her out as she has no job, no money and no husband. She has a 10-month-old baby I love very much. I take care of the baby while she sleeps all day.

My daughter is a beautiful girl with a nice figure and she doesn't hesitate to tell you so. I only wish her brain was the same.

Your column is the only thing she ever reads in the paper. Maybe if you printed this, it might wake her up.

MOM

DEAR MOM: She's up! Somebody should wake you up. As long as you continue to look after her child while she sleeps all day and stays out all night, nothing will change. Why should it? She's got it made. A child (of any age or marital status), while living in her parents' home, should be made to abide by the standards of that home — or vamoose!

DEAR ABBY: I am a very warm-blooded girl who craves affection, and I am married to a very cold touch-me-not type man. We have two children. Don't ask me how they got here. They were both accidents. But accidents like that don't happen to us very often.

The big blowup came last night when he took me to a drive-in movie. It was a romantic film so I snuggled up close to him and he kept moving away from me until he was practically on the fender. I asked him to kiss me, and he said, "No, not here." (We were all alone in a closed car, and it was pitch dark.) Well, it ruined my whole evening.

I know I am not all that bad, Abby. He keeps telling me he "loves" me, so why doesn't he show me?

HUNGRY FOR LOVE

DEAR HUNGRY: Your man doesn't know how to give love because he has never been taught, and he probably hadn't received much love in his early life. Teach him. But not in a drive-in.

What's your problem? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. Write to ABBY, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069. For a personal reply enclose stamped, addressed envelope.

Ready — begin: one, two, three four . . . the exercise countdown has begun — for my husband, who enters the Marine Corps OCS next month, and for myself because, oh you know, I want to shape up before school starts this fall.

In many households, exercising becomes a ritual, whether it is self-styled, aided by the Lincoln Star's Josephine Lowman, Jack LaLane, or in my case, the Marine Corps! And as many women know, the "bump and grind" period demands sensible, comfortable clothing.

Why not give the sewing machine some exercise and whip up a perky outfit that can take the stress and strain of a daily work-out schedule?

When picking out the pattern there are three alternatives. You can either select a pattern size too large for extra comfort and make-believe you have already shed several pounds, or at the other extreme, use a pattern which is one size too small to serve as a reminder that you have "only just began" when you stretch and hear the all too familiar sound of ripping seamlines, or the last smart approach — stick to the size you are now.

Once that decision is over, and it is time to actually pick the pattern, stay with the bodysuit or jumpsuit variety that feature collarless necklines, button, or zip-up the front closures, cap or no sleeves, and roomy hot-pants legs.

Pattern in hand, browse for a material that can withstand sit-ups, and my favorite—jumping rope. Remember, your exercise outfit will be going through every maneuver with and if there is no give or stretch to the material, believe me, you will suffer.

The sooner the suit is ready, the better since you will be eager to dress for the occasion in a bouncy bodysuit — especially when you realize it will soon be housing a new body — yours!

Tie up your hair, don the new jumpsuit, roll back the rug, ready—begin: one, two, three, four. . .

Our American ancestors may have thought of bread pudding as more economical than epicurean, but in England they were regarded as such esteemed desserts that they frequently were named for British royalty.

One of the most famous bread puddings which has been a favorite since Victorian days is known quite simply as the Queen of Puddings. It combines bread cubes with a custard mixture beneath a layer of jam or marmalade and a snowy white meringue.

Cabinet Pudding is another distinguished bread pudding that provides an impressive ending for a company meal. The recipe we are including in today's food story is baked in custard cups for shapely individual servings. The colorful accompanying sauce that you see in the picture is strawberry jam enhanced with almonds and orange juice.

Now, we present the—

QUEEN OF PUDDINGS

8 slices raisin bread
4 eggs
¼ cup sugar
3 cups milk
1 teaspoon vanilla
½ teaspoon nutmeg
1 jar (10 ounces) orange marmalade
3 egg whites
3 tablespoons sugar

Cut bread into ½-inch cubes. Place bread cubes in a shallow buttered 1½-quart baking dish. Beat eggs with sugar, milk, vanilla and nutmeg. Pour over bread. Set baking dish in a pan containing 1 inch of hot water. Bake in a preheated moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 40 to 45 minutes or until center is firm to the touch. Remove dish from water and cool. Spread top of pudding with orange marmalade. Beat egg whites until foamy; beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time, until mixture is stiff and glossy. Spoon meringue around outer edge of pudding. Bake in a preheated 350 degrees F. oven 12 to 15 minutes or until meringue is lightly browned.

The defenders would undoubtedly find their task far more difficult if there were no conventions to steer them toward the best defense. One of the most valuable of these conventions is known as the "trump echo."

When declarer is in a suit contract, it is often desirable for a defender to know how many trumps his partner has. This problem can sometimes be solved successfully by making use of the trump echo.

Thus, suppose a defender has the 6-4-2 of trumps. If he plays the four, followed later by the two — in other words, high-low — he thereby shows he started with three trumps.

As a corollary, if a defender plays the two and later the four, he denies having three trumps, and in that way too he gives partner what may be valuable information.

The trump echo can be highly important, as illustrated in today's hand. West led a club and East, upon winning with the ace, realized that the lead was a singleton. He returned the deuce, which West trumped with the four.

West returned a low diamond, the king forcing the ace, and declarer then led the king of spades, West playing the two and East the ace.

East now had a problem of sorts. If West had the queen of diamonds, a diamond return might be necessary to beat the contract. But if West did not have the queen, then only a club return could do the job.

West's trump echo — he had played the four and then the deuce — made the problem easy to solve. East returned a club, knowing full well that his partner had another trump, and the effect of West's delicate trump signal was that he was able to ruff and put the contract down one.

City Council Reverses Vote On Villager Liquor License

By TOM EKVALL
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday reversed itself on a liquor license application turned down 5-1 a week ago for the Aku Tiki Lounge at the Villager Motel convention center.

Council members voted 4-3 to grant a second liquor license for the motel complex although Councilman Helen Boosalis put it: "One would suffice."

Council members Richard Baker and Pete Peterson changed their votes to approval plus Chairman Dick Hartsock, who was absent last week, and Bob Sikyta also voted for approval.

Opposing the second license were Boosalis, Steve Cook and Merle Hale.

The State Liquor Commission must still grant approval of the Class C license, a hearing set for July 30.

Bernard Hilgert of Cotner Investment Co. said the second license would give the motel complex "better control over liquor operations."

"The size of our operations warrants two licenses," Hilgert argued.

When pressed on reasons for having two licenses, he said that with two licenses, a violation would not result in the entire liquor operation being closed down.

The present license covers the entire motel complex including the Aku Tiki.

Thus, if the second license is approved, a violation at the Aku Tiki would only temporarily close that lounge with liquor to be served and sold at the other cocktail lounge, and restaurant and liquor store and vice versa.

The license to be transferred would be one which the Cotner Investment Co. now holds at the Taco Joe Restaurant presently not in operation.

Hilgert said that although the Liquor Commission has turned down continuance of the license since it had not been used, the license still exists because of an appeal filed.

He said the license would not be sold once transferred to the AkuTiki or moved anywhere else.

Mrs Boosalis said in opposing the transfer she feels there is no need for two licenses at one place.

Council Members Debate Merits Of Rezoning For Apartment Unit

City Council members differed Monday over zoning philosophies in regard to rezoning land to permit additional housing in the city.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis said that approval of a specific rezoning without consideration of its effect on the entire area could end up as having a detrimental effect.

Pete Peterson, though, argued that "anytime you improve the housing situation (through increasing the number of housing units) everyone gains."

Not Automatic

Peterson's remark was countered by a reply from Mrs. Boosalis that "zoning per se does not produce low income housing."

Peterson replied that the additional housing does permit "others to move into better housing."

Bob Sikyta said he looks favorably on any zoning request which "helps a neighborhood and increases housing."

He said that comments in regard to the past election indicating that the mood of the public towards a more restrictive zoning policy that persons were telling him "to look at changes critically" as to whether a change would harm the area—such as business or industry in a residential area.

Updating Urged

Councilman Merle Hale contended that "the planning department does not seem to be planning ahead" in arguing that it should be continually doing some updating of the comprehensive plan rather than always waiting for a consultant to come in and do it.

The lively discussion came up during a public hearing on a change of zone application to permit an apartment complex on land zoned B Two Family at the northwest corner of Ballard and Touzalin Ave. Lyle Hansen had requested D Multiple Dwelling for the property, the application recommended for denial by both the planning department and planning commission.

Sikyta a Havelock businessman, said he felt Havelock does need some D Multiple zoning — there is no such zoning in the area now — and felt that the site would be an ideal location for the proposed zoning.

Need Questioned

Mrs Boosalis asked questions as to the need for additional multiple dwelling zoning in the area. She continued that the proposed rezoning should be considered as part of the whole package rather than by itself.

Council members were in agreement that the planning department should make a survey of the area as to the need for multiple dwelling zoning.

The council also voted 5-2 to send back to the Planning Commission a change of zone for highway commercial use on property at West O and Cushman Rd.

Lincolnite Rae Is Approved To Manage City Bus System

The City Council Monday approved the appointment of Lincolnite Jerald Rae to head the city's new public bus system.

Rae, 52, is branch manager for Wells Fargo and indicates he will be available as general manager July 26. Management duties will be performed by Lincoln City Lines personnel until Rae is fully able to take over the management reins.

The Transit Advisory Committee had recommended Rae after considering applications from throughout the nation.

Council members also voted to approve the hiring by the Lincoln Electric System Administrative Board of Walter Canney, 36, as the board's general manager.

Canney, who will receive a salary of $24,000 comes from Missouri where he served as assistant to the general manager of the Northeast Missouri Electric Power Cooperative.

The approval of Canney is a joint one by the City Council and mayor.

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf said he also approves the selection.

The council also approved the appointment of Laurence Connealy, controller at Lincoln Telephone and Telegraph, to the LES Administrative Board to replace Gene Wolken.

The change had earlier been approved 4-2 by the council, vetoed by the mayor. The veto was upheld when the council failed to get sufficient votes to override the veto.

Hartsock Abstained

Councilman Dick Hartsock then had abstained from voting saying he had a conflict of interest because of his representing a client in a legal matter involving the applicant Gerald Lewis.

Hartsock said the matter has now been settled and he no longer has a conflict, a statement to which City Atty. Dick Wood agrees.

The council also set July 26 as the date of hearing on the revocation of a liquor license held by the Royal Grove at 340 West Cornhusker Hwy., and one held by Bali Hal, at 1011 west Daves.

GENE PIEPER DIES; FORMER BAND LEADER

Albion (AP) — E. H. (Gene) Pieper, who formerly led a dance orchestra that made appearances around the nation, died early Monday in an Albion hospital of cancer.

He was the leader of the Gene Pieper Orchestra which had national bookings and made recordings. Later he was in the insurance and real estate business in northeast Nebraska.

Survivors include the widow Louise; daughter, Mrs. Phyllis O'Brien, a son, Eugene; and a brother Leo, all of Omaha.

Services will be Thursday at Albion.

'Balance Of Power'

"The balance of political power and influence should continue to shift to those political leaders who articulate and strive to maintain the suburban way of life an increasing number of national voters have chosen," Caso's report stated.

The solution, Caso concluded, was the formation of a "suburban action team," representing the elected county

New Suburban Coalition Proposal To Focus On Suburbs' Problems

The New York Times

Milwaukee — A national suburban coalition designed to attract more attention to the problems of the suburbs was proposed Monday night to the county executives of many of the nation's urban and suburban counties.

ASSAU (N.Y.) County executive Ralph G. Caso, in a 25-page document prepared over the past two months, presented his proposal to county executives gathered here for the annual convention of the National Association of Counties.

A major projected shift of national congressional strength from the rural and urban areas to the suburbs on the basis of the 1970 census, he said, compelled the county leaders to band together as a counterweight to the legislative action committee of the United States Conference of Mayors, headed by Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York.

The congressional projection, apparently the first of its kind in the nation, was based on 1970 census data and compiled by members of Caso's staff in Milwaukee.

It showed that in the 1972 congressional elections, suburban areas will account for 165 seats in the House of Representatives, a gain of 21 over the present total, with the cities dropping from 148 to 136 seats and rural from 143 to 134.

'Balance Of Power'

"The balance of political power and influence should continue to shift to those political leaders who articulate and strive to maintain the suburban way of life an increasing number of national voters have chosen," Caso's report stated.

"Unfortunately, from a suburban point of view, many pieces of federal legislation still appear to concentrate on resolving problems which affect the suburbs by exclusively directing federal attention and aid to either those rural or urban parts of the problem area."

Hail Damage Forces Airliner To A Landing

Tokyo (AP) — A Japanese airliner with 97 persons aboard made a near-blind emergency landing at Tokyo's international airport Monday after it was hit by hailstones about the size of table tennis balls, airline officials reported.

They said the Japan Airlines DC-8 was caught in a hailstorm at an altitude of 17,000 feet northeast of Tokyo shortly after it took off from Haneda Airport for Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island.

The hail smashed a radar-dome, badly cracked the front glass of the pilot's cabin and caused other damage to the aircraft, they said, but no injuries were reported among the 89 passengers and crew of eight.

Expanded SACB Role Prohibited By Senate

Washington (AP) — The Senate increased the appropriation for the Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB) Monday but then voted to prohibit use of the funds to carry out a new assignment given the agency by President Nixon.

First, by a 47-40 vote, it rejected an amendment by Sen. William Proxmire, D-Wis., to strike from an appropriation bill the $450,000 already approved by the House for the 5-member board.

Then by a 51-37 vote it adopted an amendment by Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., to bar the board from using any of the money to carry out an executive order issued by Nixon on July 2.

The President's order, challenged by Ervin as a usurpation of legislative power and as an infringement on constitutional rights of free speech and assembly, gave the SACB the job of identifying and listing organizations that seek the violent overthrow of the government or violent interference with the rights of others.

The $450,000 in the bill for the SACB, created by the 1950 Internal Security Act, compares with last year's appropriation of $401,000. Nixon had requested $467,000 this year.

Proxmire, in offering the amendment to cut off funds for the board, said the agency has a record of futility and should be abolished. He described the $36,000-a-year posts on the board as "cushy sinecures."

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., called the SACB "one of the last vestiges of the McCarthy era" and said "it is time to end the witchhunt." This was a reference to the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., an ardent Communist hunter.

But Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., floor manager of the bill, said that subversive activities are increasing and continuation of the board was part of the President's program.

If its funds were denied, he said, Congress should immediately pass legislation setting up some other tribunal to investigate and identify subversive organizations.

"I hope we will not completely abandon all efforts to protect America against enemies from within," McClellan told his colleagues.

Proxmire, who had been defeated in previous attempts to deny funds for the board, had the support this time of Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La. of the Senate Appropriations Committee.

Ellender said he could not justify continued spending on a board that, "by its own admission, has no work to do." He said Supreme Court decisions had left it without authority "to act on anything at all."

Nixon announced his executive order transferring from the attorney general to the SACB responsibility for compiling a list of subversive organizations the day after the board chairman testified "we do not have enough to fill our time."

The list is circulated among federal agencies for use in checking on the background of employees and job applicants.

Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Nebr., said there now are 283 organizations on the subversive list and it badly needs to be revised and updated. He said there some 25 new organizations on which the SACB would hold hearings under Nixon's order to determine if they should be listed.

Nebraska's Republican Senator Carl Curtis voted with Sen. Hruska against the amendment that would have cut off the board's funds.

Bryant Airconditioning and Heating Co.

your inner-space problem solvers

There are 26 good reasons to own an effective whole-house humidifier. So many in fact that we could not list each of them in this column, but probably the most important is your own well being and the protection of your personal properties. Each of the reasons is important and each is a reason to buy and install a good humidifier.

Beginning this week, we are going to attempt to bring the message of humidification to all of Lincoln. In addition, we are going to be promoting the Humid-Aire and Humid-Disc® Home Humidifiers. We have been able to get decreased costs from the factory and are now in a position to offer the finest humidifier buys in the city. We ask that you watch for, and listen to, our messages concerning this outstanding promotion.

Why this early on humidification? What better time than before the season? As in everything we have attempted to do this year such as pre-season air conditioning and pre-season heating, we have been able to give all of our fine customers the best values in the city. This, then, is our reason. Your budget is as important to us as it is to you . . . we can and will save you money, not only on the product, but also on the quality installation you've come to expect of Bryant. Why pay more when you can save so very much by calling 467-1111. Let us show you the finest at the lowest prices in town.

With the cost of living and prices going up and up, we, at Bryant, have been able to lower our costs to all of our fine customers . . . this is still another example of doing our part to combat inflation. Call us at 467-1111 . . . you'll be glad you did.

City Council Reverses Vote On Villager Liquor License

By TOM EKVAL
Star Staff Writer

The City Council Monday reversed itself on a liquor license application turned down 5-1 a week ago for the Aku Tiki Lounge at the Villager Motel convention center.

Council members voted 4-3 to grant a second liquor license for the motel complex although Councilman Helen Boosalis put it: "One would suffice."

Council members Richard Baker and Pete Peterson changed their votes to approval plus Chairman Dick Hartsock, who was absent last week, and Bob Sikyta also voted for approval.

Opposing the second license were Boosalis, Steve Cook and Merle Hale.

The State Liquor Commission must still grant approval of the Class C license, a hearing set for July 30.

Bernard Hilgert of Cotner Investment Co. said the second license would give the motel complex "better control over liquor operations."

"The size of our operations warrants two licenses," Hilgert argued.

When pressed on reasons for having two licenses, he said that with two licenses, a violation would not result in the entire liquor operation being closed down.

The present license covers the entire motel complex including the Aku Tiki.

Thus, if the second license is approved, a violation at the Aku Tiki would only temporarily close that lounge with liquor to be served and sold at the other cocktail lounge, and restaurant and liquor store and vice versa.

The license to be transferred would be one which the Cotner Investment Co. now holds at the Taco Joe Restaurant presently not in operation.

Hilgert said that although the Liquor Commission has turned down continuance of the license since it had not been used, the license still exists because of an appeal filed.

He said the license would not be sold once transferred to the AkuTiki or moved anywhere else.

Mrs. Boosalis said in opposing the transfer she feels there is no need for two licenses at one place.

New Suburban Coalition Proposal To Focus On Suburbs' Problems

The New York Times

Milwaukee — A national suburban coalition designed to attract more attention to the problems of the suburbs was proposed Monday night to the county executives of many of the nation's urban and suburban counties.

ASSAU (N.Y.) County executive Ralph G. Caso, in a 25-page document prepared over the past two months, presented his proposal to county executives gathered here for the annual convention of the National Association of Counties.

A major projected shift of national congressional strength from the rural and urban areas to the suburbs on the basis of the 1970 census, he said, compelled the county leaders to band together as a counterweight to the legislative action committee of the United States Conference of Mayors, headed by Mayor John V. Lindsay of New York.

The congressional projection, apparently the first of its kind in the nation, was based on 1970 census data and compiled by members of Caso's staff in Mineola, N.Y.

It showed that in the 1972 congressional elections, suburban areas will account for 165 seats in the House of Representatives, a gain of 21 over the present total, with the cities dropping from 148 to 136 seats and rural from 143 to 134.

'Balance Of Power'

"The balance of political power and influence should continue to shift to those political leaders who articulate and strive to maintain the suburban way of life an increasing number of national voters have chosen," Caso's report stated.

"Unfortunately, from a suburban point of view, many pieces of federal legislation still appear to concentrate on resolving problems which affect the suburbs by exclusively directing federal attention and aid to either those rural or urban parts of the problem area."

The solution, Caso concluded, was the formation of a "suburban action team," representing the elected county executives of many of the major suburban areas.

"I think it high time that the counties of this country get together on a united front to press for our own needs in Washington," Caso told newsmen. "We just can't sit back and let the cities walk all over us."

6 Major Areas

Caso listed six major areas in which the suburban action team might take immediate action and make immediate suggestions:

— "The national order of domestic priorities."

— "The comparative advantages of revenue-sharing vs. the federal assumption of welfare costs, etc."

"The effect of Rep. (Wilbur) Mills's position on the issue of general revenue-sharing."

— "The effect of foreign-made SST's in terms of noise pollution in major suburban areas."

— "The 'wetport' concept of building off-shore airports in oceans and lakes."

— "The value-added tax as a potential major source of revenue."

He said that new legislative proposals benefiting the suburbs might also be made in the fields of health maintenance, housing and development assistance, public transportation, welfare federalization, education, pollution control and law enforcement, although he did not spell out any specific pieces of legislation he envisioned.

Members of the legislative action committee of the United States conference of mayors were arriving here Monday night for a one-day visit. Tuesday morning, 16 of the 17 big-city mayors on the committee will meet over breakfast with representatives of the National Association of Counties which is holding its annual convention here.

They said the Japan Airlines DC-8 was caught in a hailstorm at an altitude of 17,000 feet northeast of Tokyo shortly after it took off from Haneda Airport for Hokkaido, Japan's northernmost main island.

The hail smashed a radar dome, badly cracked the front glass of the pilot's cabin and caused other damage to the aircraft, they said, but no injuries were reported among the 89 passengers and crew of eight.

Bryant Airconditioning and Heating Co.

your inner-space problem solvers

There are 26 good reasons to own an effective whole-house humidifier. So many in fact that we could not list each of them in this column, but probably the most important is your own well being and the protection of your personal properties. Each of the reasons is important and each is a reason to buy and install a good humidifier.

Beginning this week, we are going to attempt to bring the message of humidification to all of Lincoln. In addition, we are going to be promoting the Humid-Aire and Humid-Disc® Home Humidifiers. We have been able to get decreased costs from the factory and are now in a position to offer the finest humidifier buys in the city. We ask that you watch for, and listen to, our messages concerning this outstanding promotion.

Why this early on humidification? What better time than before the season? As in everything we have attempted to do this year such as pre-season air conditioning and pre-season heating, we have been able to give all of our fine customers the best values in the city. This, then, is our reason. Your budget is as important to us as it is to you . . . we can and will save you money, not only on the product, but also on the quality installation you've come to expect of Bryant. Why pay more when you can save so very much by calling 467-1111. Let us show you the finest at the lowest prices in town.

With the cost of living and prices going up and up, we, at Bryant, have been able to lower our costs to all of our fine customers . . . this is still another example of doing our part to combat inflation. Call us at 467-1111 . . . you'll be glad you did.

So we closed the little log chalet in Baie St. Paul. Shut down the hot water heater. Locked the doors. Took an unused six-pack of Labatt beer to a neighbor.

It's a pretty village in the valley of the Gouffre. You come down from the hills overlooking the St. Lawrence and see it spread before you. The silver peaked Norman spires of the church lifted to heaven in the blue French-Canadian sky.

Baie St. Paul is noted historically. This is where syphilis first appeared in New France. In the 1600s a spinoff gift of a French sailor, along with the glass beads and iron hatchets.

The red-and-white maple leaf flag of Canada flies over government buildings. But over private residences, and business firms, and offices of the Providence of Quebec, they fly Quebec's banner: A blue field crossed with white; a white fleur-de-lys in each quarter.

(Occasionally a motel—an eye on the tourist dollar—puts up an American flag, too.)

Quebec's six million people are determined not to be swallowed by the sixteen million Canadians who speak English.

A Quebecois says to me: "We have considered a free trade alliance with the United States—Quebec, of course, to be an independent state."

"We have considered simple independence. Apart from the rest of Canada."

"We have considered the Commonwealth idea. Perhaps the same thing you have with Puerto Rico."

"One thing we are sure: We shall remain Quebecois. People of Quebec. Speaking French. Preserving the culture our ancestors brought here. We will learn English where it is necessary. But we will not have English imposed on us."

Montreal with three million people is the second largest French speaking city of the world. Right after Paris. It's good if you try to speak a little French up here. Even only a "bon jour" now and then.

It's a matter of courtesy.

WHAT'S BEST TO TAKE FOR

Dull, Throbbing Pain Of Nervous Tension Headaches?

Anyone who suffers from tension headaches knows only too well how the throbbing pain can dull efficiency, play havoc with nerves and slow you down.

What's best to take? Clinical tests by doctors on over 500 patients who complained of tension headaches proved Anacin® relieves nervous tension headaches just as effectively as the expensive leading prescription. Yet Anacin needs no prescription and costs far less.

Here is other convincing evidence of the effectiveness of Anacin. A survey of over 1,600 specialists in internal medicine Frontenac something to think about," said the Quebecois.

The imposing Chateau Frontenac was started in 1880. On the old Place d'Armes. On the high bluff over the St. Lawrence where the palace of the French governors stood.

It has great high ceilings. Dark paneled walls. It's been well kept. I ate in the chandelied dining room last night—quail stuffed with foie gras with grapes. All sauced with wine and flamed with brandy.

It was a four-alarm fire when they set it off. The maitre d'hotel himself lit the fuse. And we all raised our glasses (Muscadel, 1961) and cried: "Quebec libre!"

This is tourist season. I couldn't get a room at the Frontenac. I stayed out at the Laurentides Motel—not Old World, but it has a swimming pool.

I got the idea the Quebecois welcome Conrad Hilton. That the Chateau Frontenac has become a bit smug over the years.

And—like all of us—the Quebecois like to see the camp taken on by a new boy with muscle.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Forecast For Tuesday

Although Pisces is said to rule the "hot" I have noted that many women of this zodiacal sign can do as much with their eyes as some do with their entire bodies. Pisces women are physically drawn to men born under Cancer, they are good in a financial sense, for those born under Aquarius. The Pisces woman is dramatic in a quiet subtle manner. She usually adores the theater but detests theatrics. Some famous women born under Pisces include Elizabeth Taylor, Samantha Eggar and Keely Smith.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) What appeared shilled may now be ready for some startling innovations. Stress the new throw off bias. Libra individual can show way. Mate, partner has right to be restless. Be understanding. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Journey that appears necessary may lead to wild goose chase. One who seems to be ignoring you actually pays close attention. Applies particularly to associates professional superiors.

GEMINI (May 21-June 21) Finances may be in state of flux, get tighter hold on reins. Be fair but firm. Applies especially when dealing with one born under Sagittarius. Check budget, take inventory. You will understand.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) What was an emotional riot now becomes a fascinating challenge. Lunar cycle is high. Circumstances favor your special efforts. Additional funds will be released. You make gains.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be aware of legal implications, study special documents. Check behind scenes imitations. One who advocates clandestine meeting needs careful watching. Know this, accordingly. Protect self.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Friend who is generous with your money may be of fair-weather variety. Examine motives—including your own. Costly procedures can be eliminated. Aquarius individual may play key role.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Direct energies directed toward one who is appreciative. Revelation is due which exposes vital secret. Take action in calm, cool manner, avoid panic. You will get needed support.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21) Low key approach is best, check records, statistics. Accept new knowledge, be willing to make necessary revisions. One who appeared rigid displays greater flexibility works in your favor.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21) Well-meaning relative may not be too wise concerning investments. Friendship and money can now prove a dependable combination. Efforts gain greater recognition. Finish task.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Handling of funds comes under closer scrutiny. Plan accordingly. Avoid at tempting to force issues. Lunar cycle is indicative of need to lie low. Make concession to mate, partner.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) Define goals: what you reach for now is apt to be achieved. Be sure you know what is you really need. Get rid of superfluous goods, material. Trim down to essentials. Many will respond.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Good lunar aspect now coincides with possible romantic involvement. Be generous without being foolish. Young person could be making unreasonable demands. Do some personal checking.

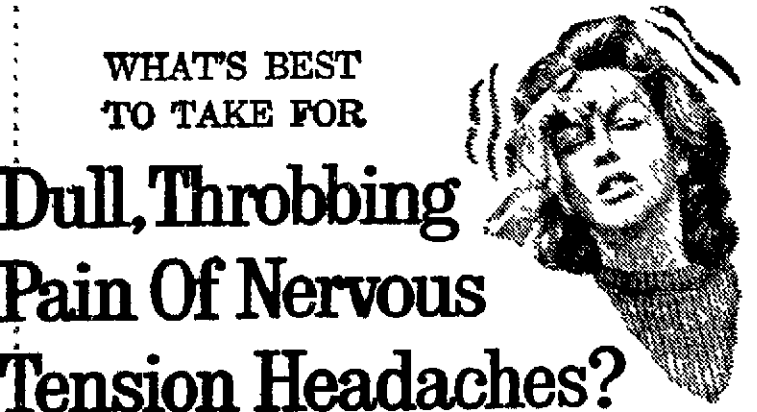

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY many describe you as being musical. You are receptive to the arts, you are sensitive, but also have a base built on practicality. Although generally regarded as a quiet individual, you possess innate sense of showmanship. Major cycle is concluding, you are favored if willing to finish what has been started.

$2.64 Billion British Tax Cut Is Designed To Fight Inflation

London (UPI) — The conservative government Monday handed Britons a $2.64 billion tax cut bonanza coupled with boosts for industry in a package it said was designed to make "a decisive breakthrough" against inflation.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber, in announcing the measures to Parliament, said, "We now have a unique opportunity to make a decisive breakthrough in the fight against inflation."

Purpose of the package, he said, was to give a shot in the arm to Britain's stagnant economy, encourage industrial production, slash unemployment and halt inflation.

The boost was substantially more than the $240 million to 720 million that had been widely predicted.

Public Opinion

Political sources said it may partly have been designed to please Parliament and public opinion at a time when the government faces a critical fight to win approval for British entry into the European Common Market.

Chief among the measures announced by Barber were:

—An 18.18% cut in purchase (Sales) taxes which range from 13% on many household goods, clothing and furniture, to 36.23% on automobiles, television sets and household appliances, and 55% on luxury goods such as furs and cosmetics.

—Lifting all restrictions on installment buying.

—Encouragement to industry by increasing from 60 to 80% the tax allowance in the first year for investment in new machinery and plant.

—Tax-free depreciation for immobile plant and machinery used in service industries in depressed areas.

$3.36 Billion in 1972

Barber said the purchase tax cuts, along with other cuts already announced in the annual budget last April, will total about $2.64 billion this year and more than $3.36 billion in 1972.

He said it was the first time the purchase tax has been cut since 1963 and was the biggest slash since 1953.

Barber estimated the aids to industry would be worth $96 million in 1972-73 and about $360 million the following year.

Barber announced that Britain's international payments surplus, now running at a level of $1.44 billion yearly, now is so good the government is repaying next month another $614.4 million of the $7.2 billion Britain borrowed from the International Monetary Fund in 1967.

Surgeons Used Local Anesthetic

©The New York Times

By JEAN LeCLERC du SABLON
Agence France Presse

Peking — The Chinese surgeons who removed the appendix of New York Times President James Reston in an emergency operation here Saturday night did so with a local anesthetic.

When I visited Reston at the "Anti-Imperialist Hospital" Monday, he was recovering well, although still sufficiently weak that he had to make an effort to speak.

To reduce post-operative discomfort for their patient, the Chinese doctors also used acupuncture — the Chinese treatment by needle punctures, employed to cure ailments and reduce pain.

Reston was conscious throughout the operation by two surgeons, Prof. Li and Dr. Chiu. Their explanations of the operation were translated to him, in impeccable Oxford-accented English, by a high official of the Chinese foreign ministry's information department.

"Everybody here is very, very friendly," Mrs. Reston said. "The nurses are just wonderful and the doctors are very good."

Reston said his operation had been handled by experts and he found the Chinese doctors and nurses perfect. He smiled and said he had never had so many doctors around him.

BAYH PROPOSES AID

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said Monday he is proposing aid for homeowners who suffer property loss in major disasters. Federal grants would be available for those in financial distress and would amount to 50% of the repair cost up to $15,000.

New Bishop's Cafeteria Will Be Built At Gateway

Construction of a Bishop's Cafeteria is expected to get underway in the next few days in the Gateway Shopping Center, Richard Edmonds of Bankers Life Nebraska confirmed Monday.

The new cafeteria will be attached to the west side of the existing Hinky Dinky Supermarket, occupying approximately 10,000 square feet.

Edmonds, who is in the real estate department, said the new Hinky Dinky Supermarket is expected to open Wednesday as part of the Gateway expansion project.

Glenover Baseball Park Proposal Is Advanced By Beatrice Council

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — A rezoning request to accommodate a proposed Glenover area baseball field drew a crowd of 40 persons and second-round approval before the city council Monday night.

But one more vote — the payoff final inning — remains to go on the scoreboard. That is slated for the next regular meeting, Aug. 2.

The American Legion and Eagles Club, sponsors of the Junior Legion baseball team, have asked that a five-acre tract be changed from agricultural to light industrial zoning. A donor has offered the land provided it can go into use within two years.

'Substandard Park'

Leading off for several proponents Monday was Steve Winter, the team's present coach, who said Beatrice now has "a very substandard ball park." Other spokesmen said the present one field is inadequate because of crowded scheduling.

Introduced was a petition of support signed by 47 Glenover residents, a counter-measure to 36 previous signers against the field. Opponents repeated earlier arguments that the field would create noise, dust and traffic hazards. It was also questioned whether water and electric service would be adequate.

Mrs. Alex Severance said the great fear of several older residents is that they might lose their homes if forced to pay for future paving which might result from the project.

Changes Opinion

Mayor Bob Sargent Sr. said this is also his concern but that he hopes access can be provided to the field without much disruption to streets. He said he has changed his opinion from the previous meeting and now believes a "a very good spot has been picked out."

It was estimated that $15-20,000 might be required to develop the field. Spokesman Calvin Gullion assured the council, however, that "no city funds would be involved."

In other action, the council gave final 7-0 approval to a 1971-72 budget totaling $1,501,602. A pre-announced public hearing brought forth no appearances by taxpayers.

It is estimated the figure, requiring $789,905 in local taxes, will boost the city levy about .83 mill above the current total. The new levy is anticipated to be 29.07, with 3.93 mills of this involving sinking and pension funds not subject to the 25-mill state limitation.

Unanimous approval was given to hiking the pay of Board of Public Works members to $15 for each weekly meeting attended. It was noted that the

Services Set For C. Meek

Services will be held Wednesday for former owner and operator of Meek Lumber Yard, Carleton L. Meek, 88, of 5204 Madison who died Monday.

Born in Nebraska City, Mr. Meek started his lumber operation in Lincoln in 1924 and retired in 1959. He also operated a lumber company in Peru and was a farm operator.

Mr. Meek was a member of University Place Businessmen's Association, Nebraska Lumbermen's Association, the YMCA, First United Methodist Church and was the former president of the University Place Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife, Leonora; two daughters, Mrs. S. B. (Ruth) Lee and Mrs. Warren (Helen) Parker, both of Lincoln; five grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

renumeration has been $5 ever since the board was created in 1947.

"Assets with which the board deals have increased about nine times and the responsibilities are much greater now," said George Schmucker, board manager. He noted also that the anticipated pay of $780 annually is "still well under" the $1,000 salaries of councilmen.

The council also:

—passed ordinance providing for two-way traffic on Scott St. from 7th to 10th.

—accepted resignations of Robert Miller and Floyd Miller from Volunteer Fire Dept.

—asked that the fire chief be directed to make recommendations to beef up the volunteer department, which is currently down in numbers.

—authorized Board of Public Works to advertise for bids on rock material for alleys at estimated cost of $19,250.

—received notice from county assessor that Highway 77 property recently annexed will be subject to city taxes for 1971.

Lincoln Girl Hurt In Mower Mishap

A nine-year-old Lincoln girl was listed in "good" condition at Lincoln General Hospital after undergoing surgery for a severe foot injury she received when she was struck by a lawn mower Monday at 2340 West O.

Police said Peggy Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carroll of 2340 West O, was injured by a riding mower being operated by 15-year-old John Gerloff of 240 Northwest 20th.

A hospital official said the girl's foot was "very severely damaged."

Varner Presented List Of 7 Candidates For Presidency

University of Nebraska Chancellor D. B. Varner has been forwarded a list of seven names as possible candidates to succeed Joseph Soshnik as president of NU's Lincoln campuses and outstate activities.

None of the seven are now working in the state, The Star has learned, although all are in the education field.

NU Law Professor Wallace Rudolph, who chaired the presidential search committee, Monday said the committee's work was "basically done." Rudolph would say only that the committee's work was asked to supply a list of five to ten names and we did.

But The Star learned the list was pared to seven names from an initial list totaling some 150. It was understood the seven candidates are now at institutions from all parts of the country.

The search committee which Rudolph headed included faculty members, students and administrators from the Lincoln campuses. The committee's recommendations go to Varner and the Board of Regents which, under usual procedures, has the option of adding other names to the list.

Soshnik announced his plans to resign last spring. He will leave at the end of the summer to take a position with an Omaha investment banking firm.

It has been considered unlikely that Soshnik's successor could be named at the time he leaves unless the new president is found within the university system.

$2.64 Billion British Tax Cut Is Designed To Fight Inflation

London (UPI) — The conservative government Monday handed Britons a $2.64 billion tax cut bonanza coupled with boosts for industry in a package it said was designed to make "a decisive breakthrough" against inflation.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber, in announcing the measures to Parliament, said, "We now have a unique opportunity to make a decisive breakthrough in the fight against inflation."

Purpose of the package, he said, was to give a shot in the arm to Britain's stagnant economy, encourage industrial production, slash unemployment and halt inflation.

The boost was substantially more than the $240 million to 720 million that had been widely predicted.

Public Opinion

Political sources said it may partly have been designed to please Parliament and public opinion at a time when the government faces a critical fight to win approval for British entry into the European Common Market.

Chef among the measures announced by Barber were:

- An 18.18% cut in purchase (Sales) taxes which range from 13% on many household goods, clothing and furniture, to 36.2-3% on automobiles, television sets and household appliances, and 55% on luxury goods such as furs and cosmetics.
- Lifting all restrictions on installment buying.
- Encouragement to industry by increasing from 60 to 80% the tax allowance in the first year for investment in new machinery and plant.
- Tax-free depreciation for immobile plant and machinery used in service industries in depressed areas.

$3.36 Billion in 1972

Barber said the purchase tax cuts, along with other cuts already announced in the annual budget last April, will total about $2.64 billion this year and more than $3.36 billion in 1972.

He said it was the first time the purchase tax has been cut since 1963 and was the biggest slash since 1953.

Barber estimated the aids to industry would be worth $96 million in 1972-73 and about $360 million the following year.

Barber announced that Britain's international payments surplus, now running at a level of $1.44 billion yearly, now is so good the government is repaying next month another $614.4 million of the $7.2 billion Britain borrowed from the International Monetary Fund in 1967.

Varner Presented List Of 7 Candidates For Presidency

University of Nebraska Chancellor D. B. Varner has been forwarded a list of seven names as possible candidates to succeed Joseph Soshnik as president of NU's Lincoln campuses and outstate activities.

None of the seven are now working in the state, The Star has learned, although all are in the education field.

NU Law Professor Wallace Rudolph, who chaired the presidential search committee, Monday said the committee's work was "basically done." Rudolph would say only that the committee's work was asked to supply a list of five to ten names and we did.

But The Star learned the list was pared to seven names from an initial list totaling some 150. It was understood the seven candidates are now at institutions from all parts of the country.

The search committee which Rudolph headed included faculty members, students and administrators from the Lincoln campuses. The committee's recommendations go to Varner and the Board of Regents which, under usual procedures, has the option of adding other names to the list.

Soshnik announced his plans to resign last spring. He will leave at the end of the summer to take a position with an Omaha investment banking firm.

It has been considered unlikely that Soshnik's successor could be named at the time he leaves unless the new president is found within the university system.

Surgeons Used Local Anesthetic

By JEAN LECLERC du SABLON
Agence France Presse

Peking — The Chinese surgeons who removed the appendix of New York Times President James Reston in an emergency operation here Saturday night did so with a local anesthetic.

When I visited Reston at the "Anti-Imperialist Hospital" Monday, he was recovering well, although still sufficiently weak that he had to make an effort to speak.

To reduce post-operative discomfort for their patient, the Chinese doctors also used acupuncture — the Chinese treatment by needle punctures, employed to cure ailments and reduce pain.

Reston was conscious throughout the operation by two surgeons, Prof. Li and Dr. Chiu. Their explanations of the operation were translated to him, in impeccable Oxford-accented English, by a high official of the Chinese foreign ministry's information department.

"Everybody here is very, very friendly," Mrs. Reston said. "The nurses are just wonderful and the doctors are very good."

Reston said his operation had been handled by experts and he found the Chinese doctors and nurses perfect. He smiled and said he had never had so many doctors around him.

BAYH PROPOSES AID

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., said Monday he is proposing aid for homeowners who suffer property loss in major disasters. Federal grants would be available for those in financial distress and would amount to 50% of the repair cost up to $15,000.

New Bishop's Cafeteria Will Be Built At Gateway

Construction of a Bishop's Cafeteria is expected to get underway in the next few days in the Gateway Shopping Center, Richard Edmonds of Bankers Life Nebraska confirmed Monday.

The new cafeteria will be attached to the west side of the existing Hinky Dinky Supermarket, occupying approximately 10,000 square feet.

Edmonds, who is in the real estate department, said the new Hinky Dinky Supermarket is expected to open Wednesday as part of the Gateway expansion project.

A building permit for the Bishop's Cafeteria lists the value at $325,000.

Already under construction in the southwest corner of the Gateway tract is another restaurant to be known as Ruben's. The restaurant will include a cocktail lounge and will be owned by the chain firm of Far West Services of Newport Beach, Calif.

Golf Course Planned

Windsor, England (P) — City officials announced construction of a nine-hole golf course on a 20-acre plot for students at Eton College.

Glenover Baseball Park Proposal Is Advanced By Beatrice Council

By Southeast Nebraska Bureau

Beatrice — A rezoning request to accommodate a proposed Glenover area baseball field drew a crowd of 40 persons and second-round approval before the city council Monday night.

But one more vote — the payoff final inning — remains to go on the scoreboard. That is slated for the next regular meeting, Aug. 2.

The American Legion and Eagles Club, sponsors of the Junior Legion baseball team, have asked that a five-acre tract be changed from agricultural to light industrial zoning. A donor has offered the land provided it can go into use within two years.

'Substandard Park'

Leading off for several opponents Monday was Steve Winter, the team's present coach, who said Beatrice now has "a very substandard ball park." Other spokesmen said the present one field is inadequate because of crowded scheduling.

Introduced was a petition of support signed by 47 Glenover residents, a counter-measure to 36 previous signers against the field. Opponents repeated earlier arguments that the field would create noise, dust and traffic hazards. It was also questioned whether water and electric service would be adequate.

Mrs. Alex Severance said the great fear of several older residents is that they might lose their homes if forced to pay for future paving which might result from the project.

Changes Opinion

Mayor Bob Sargent Sr. said this is also his concern but that he hopes access can be provided to the field without much disruption to streets. He said he has changed his opinion from the previous meeting and now believes a "very good spot has been picked out."

It was estimated that $15-20,000 might be required to develop the field. Spokesman Calvin Gullion assured the council, however, that "no city funds would be involved."

In other action, the council gave final 7-0 approval to a 1971-72 budget totaling $1,501,602. A pre-announced public hearing brought forth no appearances by taxpayers.

It is estimated the figure, requiring $789,905 in local taxes, will boost the city levy about .83 mill above the current total. The new levy is anticipated to be 29.07, with 3.93 mills of this involving sinking and pension funds not subject to the 25-mill state limitation.

Pay Hikes OK'd

Unanimous approval was given to hiking the pay of Board of Public Works members to $15 for each weekly meeting attended. It was noted that the remuneration has been $5 ever since the board was created in 1947.

"Assets with which the board deals have increased about nine times and the responsibilities are much greater now," said George Schmucker, board manager. He noted also that the anticipated pay of $780 annually is "still well under" the $1,000 salaries of councilmen.

The council also:

- passed ordinance providing for two-way traffic on Scott St. from 7th to 10th.
- accepted resignations of Robert Miller and Floyd Miller from Volunteer Fire Dept.
- asked that the fire chief be directed to make recommendations to beef up the volunteer department, which is currently down in numbers.
- authorized Board of Public Works to advertise for bids on rock material for alleys at estimated cost of $19,250.
- received notice from county assessor that Highway 77 property recently annexed will be subject to city taxes for 1971.

Services Set For C. Meek

Services will be held Wednesday for former owner and operator of Meek Lumber Yard, Carleton L. Meek, 88, of 5204 Madison who died Monday.

Born in Nebraska City, Mr. Meek started his lumber operation in Lincoln in 1924 and retired in 1959. He also operated a lumber company in Peru and was a farm operator.

Mr. Meek was a member of University Place Businessmen's Association, Nebraska Lumbermen's Association, the YMCA, First United Methodist Church and was the former president of the University Place Lions Club.

He is survived by his wife, Leonora; two daughters, Mrs. S. B. (Ruth) Lee and Mrs. Warren (Helen) Parker, both of Lincoln; five grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Lincoln Girl Hurt In Mower Mishap

A nine-year-old Lincoln girl was listed in "good" condition at Lincoln General Hospital after undergoing surgery for a severe foot injury she received when she was struck by a lawn mower Monday at 2340 West O.

Police said Peggy Carroll, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Carroll of 2340 West O, was injured by a riding mower being operated by 15-year-old John Gerloff of 240 Northwest 20th.

A hospital official said the girl's foot was "very severely damaged."

Student Councils Take New Slant, No Longer Just Arrange Dances

Student councils are no longer committed to social activities, a full treasury and ways of looking "cool," according to Dr. Earl Reum.

Today's young students, he said, are concerned with contemporary issues and problems and they want to involve their councils in relevant programs.

Reum, director of student activities in the Denver public schools, is the consultant for a Nebraska Association of Student Councils (NASC) workshop being held at Nebraska Center until Thursday.

Approximately 240 student leaders from high schools throughout the state are attending the workshop.

Reum said the workshop tries to help the students find ways to make their councils relevant while at the same time working through proper channels.

"We also want to encourage the students to keep what can be valuable from the past" in their councils, he said.

He explained that every council and school must decide what role the students can play in student rights and curricular development policies and in other issues such as ecology and drug problems.

Reum, who also was consultant for last year's NASC workshop, said students must understand that principals are responsible for the school and do make final decisions.

But he said that students, principals and teachers should consider "sharing" some of the work and decisions.

For example, he suggested, schools might consider having student advisers on curriculum committees. He noted that in Baldwin, Kan., there is a student representative on the school board.

Reum cautioned, however, that student representatives on committees and board should not be "token exhibits."

Rozman Accepts Teaching Job With U Of Americas In Mexico

University of Nebraska Prof. Stephen Rozman, just completing his last duties as an NU faculty member, said Monday he has accepted an assistant professorship at the University of the Americas in Puebla, Mexico.

Rozman is the political science instructor whose position was terminated by the Board of Regents for alleged inappropriate actions more than a year ago during antiwar activities on the campus.

He has since filed a federal court suit challenging the board's action against him.

He said he is scheduled to teach classes similar to those he taught here in Latin American government and international relations.

About half of the students at the relatively new campus 80 miles southeast of Mexico City are Americans, he said, and the remainder Latin Americans.

Nebraskans Visit

He noted NU has a student exchange program with his new employer, so Nebraskans are fairly frequent visitors to the Mexican campus.

Rozman also said he has been notified that the board of the academic freedom fund of the American Association of University Professors has granted him a $1,000 interest free loan to help him carry on his legal fight against the regents.

The loan carries no judgment on the merits of his case, he said, but rather was approved because of what the AAUP judged the legal importance of the litigation.

He said he will return either late this year or next year for the trial in federal court. No date has been set for the court action, he said.

Nelson Chosen To Head State Planning Office

Gov. J. James Exon announced Monday the appointment of W. Don Nelson as director of the state office of planning and programming in the Department of Administrative Services.

The office is responsible for water and sewer planning programs throughout the state.

Nelson, who has been with the agency since 1969, is a member of the American Bar Association and holds a master's degree in urban planning and a jurist's doctor degree.

Docking: Main Issues Economy, Crime, Dope

South Sioux City — Gov. Robert Docking of Kansas, chairman of the Midwestern Governors Conference, Monday said the basic issues troubling citizens today are the state of the economy, crime and drugs.

Unemployment in the 15 state conference region is now about 5.2%, Docking said.

Economic problems dominated two panel discussion sessions Monday dealing with both agricultural and urban conditions.

Law enforcement will be the subject of Wednesday's concluding discussion session. The

Letter To Exon Protests State Cuts In Welfare

Several private welfare-related agencies have sent a letter to Gov. J. James Exon protesting reductions in some welfare payments and contending that food will be one of the items on welfare recipients' shopping lists which will have to be reduced.

The State Welfare Department has announced that some cuts in Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) checks will begin Aug. 1. Those persons will be affected who have outside income, according to the Welfare Department.

The letter to Exon was signed by representatives of the Greater Omaha Association for Retarded Children along with other agencies.

"With your proposed reduction," said the letter, "the food budget of the poor, already cut by inflated prices, is now to be cut again. Knowing the direct relationship now established between malnutrition and mental retardation, especially in the prenatal period and first five years of life, how can we in this great state add to the risk for our children?"

$27.62 Million EEOC Budget Ok'd In Senate

Washington (UPI)—The Senate approved Monday a bill to appropriate for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) the full $27.62 million sought for this fiscal year by the Nixon administration.

The House earlier voted to cut the EEOC budget to $22 million and the Senate Appropriations Committee concurred.

But on a 51-29 roll call the Senate approved an amendment by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott for the full amount.

The Senate action would allow the EEOC, which investigates complaints of job discrimination, to boost its staff by nearly 80%.

Stromer Plans To Push For 18 As Legal Adult

The youngest member of the state legislature, Sen. Gerald Stromer, 28, of Kearney said Monday that he would introduce legislation in January making 18 the legal majority age.

Stromer said the rights to make contracts, obtain a loan, drink liquor and other responsibilities "should go hand in hand with suffrage."

"I view the voting privilege as the most sacred of all adult responsibilities, therefore it seems natural to grant by statute the other responsibilities of adults that should go hand in hand with suffrage," he said.

Stromer sponsored the resolution in the last session of the Legislature making Nebraska the thirteenth state to ratify the 26th Amendment giving 18-year-olds the right to vote.

Mental Retardation Director Resigns His County Position

Verlin Boldry, executive director of the Lancaster Office for Mental Retardation (LOMR), has resigned the post effective on or before Sept. 1, it was learned Monday.

In a letter to Lancaster County Board Chairman Kenneth Bourne, Boldry said that the resignation has been accepted by the administrative board of LOMR.

He said he appreciated the cooperation he had received from the county commissioners and indicated that he hoped the board would give the same cooperation to his successor.

"This program is a good one and I sincerely believe that it is

Boldry said that if LOMR "is allowed to backslide in any way a great injustice will be done to the retarded, and the community and the country as a whole would suffer."

The assistant professor, whose contract ran through the just-completed first summer session, said he will remain in Lincoln until late August. He is due to begin teaching in Puebla in early October, he said.

Nelson Chosen To Head State Planning Office

Gov. J. James Exon announced Monday the appointment of W. Don Nelson as director of the state office of planning and programing in the Department of Administrative Services.

The office is responsible for water and sewer planning programs throughout the state.

Nelson, who has been with the agency since 1969, is a member of the American Bar Association and holds a master's degree in urban planning and a jurist's doctor degree.

Bell Hours Set

Zurich (P) — An appeals court upheld a lower-court ruling that cows in a nearby village should not wear bells between 8 p.m. and 7 a.m. so that residents could sleep.

GRAVEL OPPOSES TEST

A appeal to President Nixon is the best hope to prevent an underground nuclear test in Alaska, Sen. Mike Gravel, D-Alaska, said Monday. Gravel fears a 5-megaton explosion under ground on the island of Amchitka in October planned by the Atomic Energy Commission might trigger an earthquake, tidal wave and radiation pollution.

Docking: Main Issues Economy, Crime, Dope

South Sioux City — Gov. Robert Docking of Kansas, chairman of the Midwestern Governors Conference, Monday said the basic issues troubling citizens today are the state of the economy, crime and drugs.

Unemployment in the 15 state conference region is now about 5.2%, Docking said.

Economic problems dominated two panel discussion sessions Monday dealing with both agricultural and urban conditions.

Law enforcement will be the subject of Wednesday's concluding discussion session. The governors will discuss state, federal and local finance Tuesday.

All 15 member governors, with the exception of Patrick Lucey of Wisconsin, are participating in the conference. Gov. William Milliken of Michigan missed Monday's meeting, but is expected Tuesday.

Also due to arrive on the second day of this 10th annual Midwest Conference are Agriculture Secretary Clifford Hardin and Sen. Birch Bayh of Indiana, an unannounced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination.

Bayh has scheduled a press conference at the Hilton Marina Inn on the Nebraska side of the Missouri River shortly after his arrival in Sioux City. The senator is viewed as a certain entrant in Nebraska's presidential primary election next May.

Following Monday's conference sessions, the governors will be in the Sioux City Country Club. The afternoon was devoted to golf, swimming, tennis and other recreational activities.

The governors traveled down the river Monday night aboard the "Sergeant Floyd" for a cookout dinner on a sandbar.

Letter To Exon Protests State Cuts In Welfare

Several private welfare-related agencies have sent a letter to Gov. J. James Exon protesting reductions in some welfare payments and contending that food will be one of the items on welfare recipients' shopping lists which will have to be reduced.

The State Welfare Department has announced that some cuts in Aid to Dependent Children (ADC) checks will begin Aug. 1. Those persons will be affected who have outside income, according to the Welfare Department.

The letter to Exon was signed by representatives of the Greater Omaha Association for Retarded Children along with other agencies.

"With your proposed reduction," said the letter, "the food budget of the poor, already cut by inflated prices, is now to be cut again. Knowing the direct relationship now established between malnutrition and mental retardation, especially in the prenatal period and first five years of life, how can we in this great state add to the risk for our children?"

$27.62 Million EEOC Budget OKd In Senate

Washington (UPI)—The Senate approved Monday a bill to appropriate for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) the full $27.62 million sought for this fiscal year by the Nixon administration.

The House earlier voted to cut the EEOC budget to $22 million and the Senate Appropriations Committee concurred.

But on a 51-29 roll call the Senate approved an amendment by Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott for the full amount.

The Senate action would allow the EEOC, which investigates complaints of job discrimination, to boost its staff by nearly 80%.

Stromer Plans To Push For 18 As Legal Adult

The youngest member of the state legislature, Sen. Gerald Stromer, 28, of Kearney said Monday that he would introduce legislation in January making 18 the legal majority age.

Stromer said the rights to make contracts, obtain a loan, drink liquor and other responsibilities "should go hand in hand with suffrage."

"I view the voting privilege as the most sacred of all adult responsibilities, therefore it seems natural to grant by statute the other responsibilities of adults that should go hand in hand with suffrage," he said.

Stromer sponsored the resolution in the last session of the Legislature making Nebraska the thirteenth state to ratify the 26th Amendment giving 18-year-olds the right to vote.

Mental Retardation Director Resigns His County Position

Verlin Boldry, executive director of the Lancaster Office for Mental Retardation (LOMR), has resigned the post effective on or before Sept. 1, it was learned Monday.

In a letter to Lancaster County Board Chairman Kenneth Bourne, Boldry said that the resignation has been accepted by the administrative board of LOMR.

He said he appreciated the cooperation he had received from the county commissioners and indicated that he hoped the board would give the same cooperation to his successor.

"This program is a good one and I sincerely believe that it is the best in the state," he said.

Boldry said that if LOMR "is allowed to backslide in any way a great injustice will be done to the retarded, and the community and the country as a whole would suffer."

Horsemen Try To Beat Oklahoma's Quarantine

Oklahoma City (AP) — It was something like the great land run of 1889 in reverse Sunday as out-of-state horsemen raced to get their steeds out of Oklahoma before a quarantine barrier came down.

The quarantine was ordered for Oklahoma and four other states in an effort to prevent the spread of Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), a disease which has killed hundreds of horses in Texas and thousands in Mexico, Central and South America.

Some of the owners didn't make it, and their horses were left behind in Oklahoma. Others, racing along the roads towing their horse trailers, barely got out before the quarantine dropped.

The quarantine was affecting all segments of the horse industry, and officials of forthcoming rodeos went into emergency sessions Monday to decide what to do.

Even Oklahoma owners returning their horses from races in New Mexico were caught by the quarantine, with some making it home and others stalled.

About 60 polo ponies, bound for an international tournament in Chicago, were rushed out of Oklahoma City and Tulsa Sunday night just two hours before the quarantine went into effect.

They were taken to Kansas and Missouri in nine trailers.

There haven't been any confirmed cases of VEE in Oklahoma, but the governor's office said today there have been mysterious horse deaths in three sections of the state.

Tissues from an undisclosed number of horses have been shipped to the diagnostic center in Atlanta, Ga., for laboratory determination of the cause of death.

—DISEASE CONFINED TO TEXAS?—

Kruse Says No Vee Reported Within Nebraska—Yet

State veterinarian Dr. Norman Kruse said Monday he hopes a disease which has struck horses in Texas won't spread to Nebraska.

"If it does," said Kruse, "and it looks like it's an epidemic, then we will have to close the horse shows and the racing schedules."

There have as yet been no cases confirmed in Nebraska, said Kruse.

Should only one or two cases show up, he explained, "then we'd have to take a real long look at whether we want to close down our shows. I don't think we would if it is just an isolated case."

The disease, Venezuelan equine encephalomyelitis (VEE), surfaced in Texas last week.

According to Kruse, the disease has been confined to Texas with no confirmed cases reported in other states.

He said his office is trying to work with the State Patrol in checking horses coming into Nebraska, "but we haven't had confirmation on that yet."

Kruse said some horsemen could illegally ship their horses out of Texas in an attempt to circumvent a federal quarantine placed on the Lone Star State's horses.

Jordan Prime Minister Says 2,300 Guerrillas Captured

By The Associated Press

Prime Minister Wasfi Tell of Jordan asserted Monday 2,300 guerrillas had been captured in a week of fighting and that the entire Palestinian guerrilla movement was under firm control.

Tell called Yasir Arafat, the leader of the guerrillas, a traitor and a liar and blamed him for Iraq's break in relations with Jordan on Sunday.

The Jordanian leader told a news conference that the Iraqi government had relied on Arafat's false reports of the fighting in deciding to recall its ambassador from Amman, Jordan's capital, close its borders and ban flights of Jordanian planes over Iraq.

Arab radios trumpeted Iraq's decision as a break in diplomatic relations, but Jordan regarded it as a temporary interruption.

"I am sure that when they know the truth, things will return to normal," Tell said of Iraq.

He praised Syria's attempts at mediation in last week's fighting. The captured guerrillas were believed to have been moved from the Jordan Valley to a rear area under Syrian auspices.

Tell said Arafat had been trying for the past two months to return to Jordan but had been refused permission by King

Hussein. He is now reported in Syria.

If any guerrilla leader shows up in Jordan, Tell declared: "We will undertake a careful investigation and bring him to trial."

Referring to attempts by Iraq and other Arab countries to pressure Jordan into reaching an accommodation with the guerrillas, Tell said:

"Arab pressure on us will not be successful. We submit only to truth and to no other consideration, be it political, financial or economic."

The prime minister reported the fighting had resulted in 31 dead and 90 wounded in Government ranks, and about 50 dead on the guerrilla side.

Tell reported investigation teams were questioning the guerrillas, looking for about 320 men suspected of cooperating with Israel. Another 500 were wanted for crimes and about 450 have been arrested for activities against the security of the state, he added.

Jordan has taken a tough stand against the guerrillas after some of their leaders declared they were working to overthrow Hussein.

Hussein's fierce Bedouin troops, who hate the Palestinians, have pushed remnants of the guerrilla forces into exposed positions near the Jordan River.

More than 70 guerrillas crossed the river into Israel and gave up, and others were reported to be preparing to follow.

Shortly before Tell spoke, a military spokesman in Amman said Palestinian guerrillas bombed a police station in the capital, wounding a policeman, and shelled the town of Ramtha near the Syrian border, wounding five persons.

Fighting Still Raging

The Arab guerrilla radio claimed fighting with Jordanian regular forces was still raging in northwest Jordan.

On the diplomatic front, the Syrian government of Gen. Hafez al Assad has been aligning its approach to the Jordan crisis with that of Egypt.

President Anwar Sadat is known to be against a diplomatic break as a means of pressuring Jordan. He is coordinating his position with that of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

Faisal, though reported anxious that the guerrillas should not be wiped out, is unlikely to squeeze a fellow monarch to an extent that would be dangerous.

In Washington, the State Department announced that Joseph J. Sisco, assistant secretary of state, will visit Israel next week. He is expected to discuss, among other questions, the U.S. plan for reopening the Suez Canal and Israel's request for more Phantom fighter-bombers.

Kennedy Health Insurance 'Would Destroy Industry'

The United Press International The president of one of Nebraska's largest insurance companies said Monday approval of Massachusetts Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's national health insurance program would mean the destruction of the private health insurance companies.

The statement was made by E. J. Faulkner of Lincoln, president of Woodmen Accident and Life Insurance Co. during a presentation before the State Health Board.

"The impact of Sen. Kennedy's bill on the private health insurance industry would be to simply destroy it," he said in response to a question from board member Donald G. Lamp of Valley.

Jordan Prime Minister Says 2,300 Guerrillas Captured

By The Associated Press
Prime Minister Wasfi Tell of Jordan asserted Monday 2,300 guerrillas had been captured in a week of fighting and that the entire Palestinian guerrilla movement was under firm control.

Tell called Yasir Arafat, the leader of the guerrillas, a traitor and a liar and blamed him for Iraq's break in relations with Jordan on Sunday.

The Jordanian leader told a news conference that the Iraqi government had relied on Arafat's false reports of the fighting in deciding to recall its ambassador from Amman, Jordan's capital, close its borders and ban flights of Jordanian planes over Iraq.

Arab radios trumpeted Iraq's decision as a break in diplomatic relations, but Jordan regarded it as a temporary interruption.

"I am sure that when they know the truth, things will return to normal," Tell said of Iraq.

He praised Syria's attempts at mediation in last week's fighting. The captured guerrillas were believed to have been moved from the Jordan Valley to a rear area under Syrian auspices.

Tell said Arafat had been trying for the past two months to return to Jordan but had been refused permission by King

Hussein. He is now reported in Syria.

If any guerrilla leader shows up in Jordan, Tell declared: "We will undertake a careful investigation and bring him to trial."

Referring to attempts by Iraq and other Arab countries to pressure Jordan into reaching an accommodation with the guerrillas, Tell said:

"Arab pressure on us will not be successful. We submit only to truth and to no other consideration, be it political, financial or economic."

The prime minister reported the fighting had resulted in 31 dead and 90 wounded in Government ranks, and about 50 dead on the guerrilla side.

Tell reported investigation teams were questioning the guerrillas, looking for about 320 men suspected of cooperating with Israel. Another 500 were wanted for crimes and about 450 have been arrested for activities against the security of the state, he added.

Jordan has taken a tough stand against the guerrillas after some of their leaders declared they were working to overthrow Hussein.

Hussein's fierce Bedouin troops, who hate the Palestinians, have pushed remnants of the guerrilla forces into exposed positions near the Jordan River. More than 70 guerrillas crossed the river into Israel and gave up, and others were reported to be preparing to follow.

Shortly before Tell spoke, a military spokesman in Amman said Palestinian guerrillas bombed a police station in the capital, wounding a policeman, and shelled the town of Ramtha near the Syrian border, wounding five persons.

Fighting Still Raging
The Arab guerrilla radio claimed fighting with Jordanian regular forces was still raging in northwest Jordan.

On the diplomatic front, the Syrian government of Gen. Hafez al Assad has been aligning its approach to the Jordan crisis with that of Egypt.

President Anwar Sadat is known to be against a diplomatic break as a means of pressuring Jordan. He is coordinating his position with that of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia.

Faisal, though reported anxious that the guerrillas should not be wiped out, is unlikely to squeeze a fellow monarch to an extent that would be dangerous.

In Washington, the State Department announced that Joseph J. Sisco, assistant secretary of state, will visit Israel next week. He is expected to discuss, among other questions, the U.S. plan for reopening the Suez Canal and Israel's request for more Phantom fighter-bombers.

Views On Lockheed Divided?

Washington (AP) — Edited Defense Department testimony hinted Monday at division within the Nixon administration on measures to help Lockheed Aircraft Corp.

The issue: a $250 million loan guarantee tailored to Lockheed's needs, or a broader $2 billion authority that could also help others.

"Actually, the administration supports either one," Deputy Defense Secretary David Packard told newsmen during a break in House Banking Committee hearings.

But a few minutes earlier, it had been disclosed that a section critical of the $2 billion proposal was deleted at the eleventh hour from testimony Packard prepared for the committee.

The Nixon administration asked for the $250 million loan guarantee to help Lockheed carry on its TriStar jet bus manufacturing program and avoid bankruptcy.

Bill Converted

The Senate Finance Committee converted the bill into a $2 billion guarantee authority for distressed businesses generally.

Following usual practice, Packard sent the House committee copies of his testimony several hours in advance of his scheduled appearance.

In this version, he referred to settlements of disputes over defense contracts which proved costly to Lockheed and said:

"Both the department and the company are at fault. Past policies have encouraged defense contractors, large and small, to take on programs beyond their means . . ."

Packard supported the $250 million loan guarantee, but said "we, in the Department of Defense, do not need nor want a broad loan guarantee bill which will only encourage a continuation of these practices which have caused this trouble."

Passage Omitted

Before Packard arrived to testify, another version was delivered to the committee, omitting these and related passages. Packard read the shorter version.

Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex. has said he will support the $250 million bill as an emergency measure, but he opposes the $2 billion authorization.

Talking with newsmen, Packard said the first version of his testimony represented "views of my own."

Contradictions
Earlier the committee heard contradictory testimony from two labor union spokesmen.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is six or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
